FLOOD DAMAGE BIG

LEVIATHAN OFF ON TRIAL TRIP

BOSTON, June 19—With the burgee of the United States shipping board flying from her main truck, the giant Liner Leviathan sailed out of Boston Harbor on her trial trip shortly after 3 p m.

She will carry nearly six hundred invited guests to whom A. D. Lasker, retiring chairman from the shipping board will be host. The trip is a test preparatory to the liner's entrance into trans-Atlantic passenger service on July 4 as "queen" of the American merchant marine.

The trip started under a cloud of criticism. It has been called a "junket" and a "million dollar joy ride" on the ground that such an extensive test, entailing great expense, was not necessary to prove the vessel's fitness

So bitter did the criticism of the voyage become that President Harding finally intervened, supporting Lasker in his determination to go ahead with it. Mr. Harding told Lasker he "would never forgive him" if he abandoned the trip under criticism.

Lasker and W. F. Gibbs, naval architect, who supervised reconditioning of the great liner, both stated the trial trip was provided for in the reconditioning contract. It is necessary, not alone to test the machinery thoroly but also to give the crew of nearly one thousand a period of training, Gibbs pointed out today.

The guest list includes members of the house and senate, government officials and business and professional men. Lasker will personally conduct the voyage which will take the trip to the Caribbean and back. Off Cuba a speed test will be made over the course used by American battleships.

PREUS' LEAD IS ABOUT 30,000

ST PAUL, Minn, June 19. — Returns compiled this afternoon in the Minnesota senatorial primary supported earlier indications that the plurality of Governor J A O. Preus as republican nominee will be about 30,000

The count with 1,267 precincts reporting, was

Preus, 36,003.
Hallam, 24,414.

On the farm-labor ticket, the vote, with 1,063 precincts tabulated, stood:

Johnson, 23,576.
Fritsche, 18,429.

Wet strength of the farmer-labor vote was the big surprise of the primary.

Senator James A. Carley, democratic candidate, was conceded to be the nominee of that party by a four to one vote.

RAWSON MAY HEAD PARTY

ADAMS' SUCCESSOR TO BE PICKED BY HARDING.

As Soon as President Returns From Western Trip, He Will Name Man to Manage 1924 Campaign.

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—John T. Adams' successor as chairman of the republican national committee, will be picked soon after President Harding returns from his forthcoming western trip Mr. Harding in person will select him. The new chairman will manage the Harding campaign in 1924.

Mr. Harding's choice will be governed in a large measuse by the views of republican party leaders in the west and midwest whom he will meet on his tour.

Adams will remain as head of the committee until the republican convention in the summer of 1924 in spite of the continued effort to force him out before them. The president has ironed out any misunderstanding that existed between him and Adams over the world court and wants the committee oragnization to function without change until the end of its term which will be at convention time.

The 1924 campaign will center around farmers. Dissatisfaction and third party talk all center in the farming regions. There lies the greatest danger, republican leaders all agree.

The west or middlewest will provide the campaign manager.

Mr. Harding wants to get the matter settled to everybody's satisfaction long enough in advance of the convention to avoid friction then. He will talk to national committeemen, state chairmen and other party leaders, who will meet his train all thru the west, most of them bringing the claims of candidates for the chairmanship.

Former Senator Rawson of Iowa, who once before came near being national chairman, has strong support for the place. Rawson, his friends say would be acceptable to both the Will Hays-Harry New wing of the party and to the Daugherty wing, both of which want to dictate leaders and strategy for the next campaign.

OFFICER LEON TOWLE.

Officer Towle is the midget but one of the most important members of the local police squad. He was put on motorcycle duty on the first of June and has swelled the police court dockets to full capacity by hanging more than his allotment of speeders. In March, 1920, Mr. Towle started on night duty as pilot of the "hurry-up" wagon. He took an active part in many liquor raids. A year later he was moved up a notch when transferred to the position of day driver of the patrol.

MORE TAXABLE PROPERTY

Keya Paha County Reports Increase of $228,645 This Year to State Tax Commissioner Smith.

County Clerk T G Weddell of Keya aha county, as county assessor, is he first to report the taxable value of property to State Tax Commissioner W. H Smith. The county board equalized property at $6,244,070, an increase of $228,645 over the total of last year, which is gratifying to the state tax commisioner in view of previous rumors that there is to be a general reduction of values thruout the state this year. If this increase is maintained by other counties there will be a substantial increase this year in the face of the fact that real estate is not revalued this year.

Keya Paha county's report shows a general increase with the exception of tangible property which dropped from $85,325 to $45,520 a reduction of $39,808. The tax commissioner has asked for an explanation of this large reduction.

Personal property this year is valued at $1,700,635. Last year the total was $1,456,465.

Altho lands are not revalued this year the county reports $4,357,545 this year in lands and improvements, not counting town lots, as compared with $4,377,555.

Theodore Lowe, jr county assessor of Lincoln county, asks if current transmitted by a power company is taxable. Mr Smith is of the opinion it is not because the company transmitting it must pay taxes on capital stock deducted from real and personal property otherwise taxed.

FRANK SHOWALTER IS VICTIM

Says Two Men Hit Him in the Face and He Was Later Struck By an Auto.

Police began a search late Tuesday forenoon for two men who beat up Frank Showalter, 2700 South Seventeenth. Mr. Showalter, who is about sixty years old, was hit in the mouth and nose and later struck by an auto near Seventeenth and Harrison streets. He was taken to the police station where his injuries were temporarily looked after by Dr M F. Arnholt. The victim was then taken to Dr. W. H Slattery's office He suffered a slight concussion of the brain, according to Doctor Arnholt. Mr Showalter was in a semi-conscious condition when taken to the station. He was bruised about the face It is alleged that the victim was attacked when he attempted to restrain two men from dumping rubbish on his property. It is alleged that they are brothers whose names are Eno

PUT DAMAGE AT MILLION

LOUP AND CEDAR RIVER VALLEYS BADLY FLOODED.

Fullerton Fire Protection and Drinking Water Cut Off By Rise—Cedar River Power Dam Damaged.

COLUMBUS, Neb, June 19.—More than a million dollars' damage to crops, livestock, farms, homes and railroads is considered a conservative estimate of the ruin following in the wake of a flood that swept the Loup and Cedar river valleys yesterday.

Reports from Fuulerton indicate that the pumping station is under water and that all fire protection and drinking water has been cut off by the slowly receding flood waters, which are still said to be standing over thousands of acres of lowlands near St. Edwards, Fullerton, Geneva and Monroe. The $250,000 power dam across the Cedar river was damaged at Fullerton to the extent of $15,000 as the flood broke thru one end and then left it high and dry as the river resumed its own channel 100 yards from the dam. The Loup river bridge near Geneva and the Union Pacific railroad bridge over the Cedar near Fullerton are gone

The Union Pacific hopes to restore train service on the Columbus-Albion branch tonight. Train service on the Columbus-Spalding branch has been resumed to Genoa, but officials say that the remaining twenty miles of washed out road will not be ready for operation for five days.

Waters ar ereceding here. Shortly after 1 a m. today they reached the peak and flooded a portion of South Columbus up to Sixteenth street to a depth of 6 inches about a half mile from the river.

Boys in the Nebraska Y. M. C. A. at Camp Sheldon, cut off from communication other than telephone last night by the high water, are reported saf etoday. Their camp houses were well above the water line. The river current of the Loup is almost jammed with driftwood and the bodies of dead farm animals. The total rise was estimated at fifteen feet.

BEVERIDGE AT ROTARY

Tells of Rapid Growth and Popularity of Junior High School System

J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of Omaha schools and C. L. Cullen, principal of the Whittier Junior high school, were the speakers at the Tuesday noon meeting at the Lincoln hotel. Superintendent Beveridge told of the rapid growth and popularity thruout the United States for the Junior high school system. He said that a movement of this sort had became necessary because of the large number of pupils entering high school. He spoke of the work of the high school in improving the future of the country. He made a plea for the support of the junior high school outlining its importance.

Principal Culler told the rotarians of the rapid advancement made by the junior high school system, since 1910 when the first of its kind was established at Berkley, Cal. Economy is one of the main advantages of the junior high school. "It costs less to maintain a one-thousand pupil elementary school than it does to maintain three three-hundred-fifty pupil schools," he said. He described the new Whittier school building telling of its two gymnaisums, large library and modern arrangement of class rooms.

Miss Vera Upton and Miss Katherine Kimball sang solos accompanied by Miss Bellnap. Six members of out of town rotary clubs were present as guests of the Lincoln club. One hundred and fifteen members attended.

TWO NEW BANK EXAMINERS

Charles Stone of Nehawka and Edward Stech of Exeter Chosen.

The county commissioners in their meeting Tuesday morning, refused to grant the claims of the National Bank of Commerce and the Central National Bank for adjustment and refund of alleged excess taxes The National Bank of Commerce sought to recover $4,617.23 and the Central National bank $3,533.31 which they allege is due them as excessive taxation The two banks have filed notice of appeal and will commence suit for recovery immediately

HE'S BACK AGAIN WITH BAGS OF GOLD TO MAKE PRINCESS OUT OF MABEL

Prince Mohammed Ali Ibrahim in a dance step with Connie Talmadge; and Mabel Withee, his inamorata.

NEW YORK.—A year ago Prince Mohammed Ali Ibrahim, nephew to the khedive of Egypt and heir to a rich principality along the Nile, was given "the air" by the lady of his heart, Miss Withee.

Mabel, winsome Broadway ingenue, grew tired of being rushed by her dusky admirer, and spurned his pleas to sail for Egypt with him and queen it on the Nile. Born on Staten Island, Mabel couldn't help having an inherited and acquired taste for home grown suitors.

Now the prince is back, richer than ever, sitting in the front row watching Mabel. Will Mabel's resistance wear out, and Broadway's loss be Cairo's gain?

BAR ADDS THIRTY-SEVEN

One Woman in List of Applicants Who Passed Examination of State Bar Commission.

Thirty-seven newly admitted attorneys took an oath before the supreme court Tuesday and walked out of the room full fledged attorneys at law. They had passed an examination conducted by the supreme court bar commission and were consequently admitted to the bar by the court. Chief Justice Morrissey administered the oath. One of the new attorneys is Miss Florence Zeiser of Beaver City. David H. Oliver of Lincoln, a negro, was one of the newly admitted attorneys. John J. Zezaya of Omaha, an applicant, did not take the examination because he had not completed his naturalization. He is still a citizen of Mexico, according to the ruling of the commission, and is therefore not eligible.

Richard O'Neill, jr., of Lincoln, one of the men admitted, will leave for Alliance to practice law there as a partner of Lee Basye of that place who is now assistant attorney general.

Fred E. McFarland of York was among the men admitted. He served as a member of the legislature in 1921 and was assistant secretary of the recent state senate.

Four or five applicants are said to have failed to satisfy the bar commission in the examination.

The following are the new attorneys.

SICILIANS EVACUATE TOWN OF GIARRE

ROME, June 19.—Giarre, the largest town in the path of the destructive torrents of lava pouring from Mount Etna is being evacuated, the Tribuna's correspondent telegraphed today.

The town has a population of 20,000 and last reports from Catania stated that the lava streams were slowly but surely approaching the city, threatening it with destruction.

Civil Action Commissioner Mercanti today ordered an airplaine escadrille to the devastated area. Food water and medicines were carried to inhabitants isolated by the fiery streams of lava.

The airplanes also were detailed to scout duty to watch for evidence of new eruptions and to warn the populace whenever danger of a further spread threatened.

TWO BROKERS CONVICTED

Kriebel and Pommeroy Found Guilty By Chicago Jury of Using the Mails to Defraud.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Fred L. Kriebel, president of Kriebel and company, stock brokers, and Henry Pommeroy, New York agent of the firm, were found guilty of using the mails to defraud by a jury in federal court here today.

The two defendants were found guilty on each of four counts—three charging use of the mails to defraud and the fourth, conspiracy to refraud thru the mails.

Each of the three first counts carries a maximum of five years in prison or $5,000 fine or both The fourth count carries two years in prison or $2,000 fine or both.

Motion for a new trial will be heard July 9, United States District Judge James H. Wilkerson announced

ATTACK ON GRAIN BOARD

CAPPER DECLARES IT GREATEST GAMBLING PLACE.

Interests of Both Producer and Consumer Harmed By Chicago Board of Trade, Wheat Conference is Told.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The Chicago board of trade has become the world's greatest gambling place and works against the interests of both the producer and the consumer, Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, told 500 delegates to the national wheat conference here today.

The conference is being held to devise a way of increasing wheat prices.

"By operating bears on the market, prices were adjusted to bring profit to the speculator at the expense of the man who grew the grain and the man who really consumes it," Capper declared.

"In the famous 'May squeeze' of a year ago, a few speculators cleaned up more than $2,000,000 within twenty-four hours thru their operations on the board of trade. That $2,000,000 was more by far than all the farmers of Kansas were paid for their entire crop."

To "protect the farmer and the consumer" capper urged the organization of a cooperative wheat marketing association.

"Our present system of distribution is the most expensive and inefficient of any country on earth When the consumer buys a dollar's worth of farm products, less than 30 cents of the consumer's dollar reaches the farmer," he asserted.

"A real commodity marketing association such as that used by the raisin, cotton and tobacco producers would place the business of wheat growing on a basis where the surplus could be handled in a more intelligent way."

Endorsed by Preus.

Capper's suggestion for a cooperative marketing association for wheat growers was endorsed by Governor J. A. O. Preus, chief sponsor of the conference and by Governor Jonathan Davis, Kansas.

"What the farmer needs is intelligent marketing and this can be brought about in no better way than thru a cooperative marketing association," Governor Preus said in his opening address.

"The farmer has been the underdog. He must be helped. My suggestion is a cooperative marketing association," Governor Davis said in a telegram which was read by Governor Preus.

Sydney Anderson, congressman from Minnesota, was elected permanent chairman of the conference. C. H. Bowles, representing the farmers' union, Lynchburg, Va., was named permanent secretary.

Senator Capper defended the "farm bloc" in congress, declaring it did not attempt "class legislation" but sought only the common welfare of the country.

"We have not asked any special favors for farmers," Capper said. "The new legislation enacted by congress is in no sense class legislation. We must remember that the farms represent an investment of seventy billion dollars and that the farmers contribute to the business success of every other branch of industry."

"This is not a political meeting," Governor Preus declared in his opening address.

"We are to consider as a business problem the worst crisis the wheat grower of America has ever found himself in.

To Affect Industry.

"Failure to bring relief to the farmer from the present situation will have a serious effect on every other industry."

More than ten million women, men and children in this country are directly concerned with the production of wheat and the dissatisfied condition of a large portion of the agricultural population today is due largely to the price of wheat, the governor said.

"There can be no solution of this problem until price control is brought within the borders of this country. Wheat is only farm commodity the price of which is controlled competely outside of the United States. Of all problems confronting the American farmer the wheat surplus is the most important.

"If the farmer is to live according to American standards he should receive approximately the same wages for the same number of hours work that the working man receives in the city. The farmer is also entitled to a reasonable income from his investment

"We are now forced to compete in the world markets with a surplus of wheat, exported from other countries where the price of land and labor and taxes are lower than in the United States

"The American farmer cannot be reduced to the level of the peon labor of Argentine

"There nas never been a serious organized study of all the economic conditions underlying the wheat problem on the part of all interest found in it So we have called this meeting as a business meeting in which those who raise wheat convert it into food products and transport it and the interests of manufacturers and labor can work out a practical method of alleviating the condition now existing."

SUES HEAD OF WESLEYAN

Prof. G. M. Arsove Alleges $7,500 Salary Due Him According to Agreement.

The case of George M. Arsove against Isaac B. Schreckengast, chancellor of Wesleyan university, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $7,500 from the chancellor, will come to trial Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Arsove alleges that he was hired by the university for a period of three years, his salary for the first years was to be $1,800, for the second, $2,000 and for the third year he was to receive $2,300. He alleges that the terms of this agreement have not been complied with and that the board of trustees failed to re-elect him for the following year and seeks to recover the amount he alleges is due him.

Columbus—Petitions liberally signed by local business men will be presented to the city council at its next meeting urging enactment of an ordinance forbidding the erection of more than one filling station at any intersection in the business district. The petitions will also ask that the application of the Midway Refining company for a permit to built such a station at Thirteenth street and Twenty-eighth avenue be refused. Reasons for their stand are set forth in the petition, that the erection will greatly interfere with the public crossing the intersections.

Entertains Vacation School.

Mrs. C. W. Fleming, organist of Grace Methodist church, gave a short program of organ music this morning for the children of the East Lincoln vacation school who came over from the Second Baptist church where the school is held.

The program was preceded by an interesting talk on the mechanism of the organ in which Mrs. Fleming explained to the eager listeners how the instrument really consisted of three separate organs which could be made to speak separately or in unison.

The lusty cheer and the three "Yahos" for Mrs. Fleming expressed the appreciation of the pupils in real juvenile fashion.

The program:

Melody in F, by Rubenstein.
Hyn of the Nuns, by Lefebure-Wely.
Traumerei, by Schumann.
Toccata in A major, by Frysinger.

ETNA MAKES 100,000 HOMELESS IN SICILY

Ten Townships Buried Under Flow of Hot Lava Down Mountainside.

WELLS FOR MILES DRIED UP

Vegetation Within Large Radius Withered.

RELIEF WORK BEING PUSHED

King, Pope and Premier Aiding Refugees—Pius People Hope For Miracle to Save Their Villages.

Between 50,000 and 100,000 Sicilians Homeless.

Tremors of the Earth Adding to Terror of People Driven From Base of Etna Into Frantic Flight.

CATANIA, Sicily, June 19.—From the path of five fiery, obliterating avalanches of lava, thousands of Sicilian farmers are fleeing with their families, animals and household goods today, while the violent eruptions of Mount Etna that have rendered nearly 100,000 persons homeless, continue.

Already ten little townships have been seared into oblivion beneath the devastating flow of molten metal, which gains in speed as fresh explosions and earth tremors shake the volcano's base.

Over their shoulders as they flee, the farmers see the advancing lava walls, thousands of feet wide, thirty to forty feet high, carrying along great incandescent rocks, weighing tons. A blistering heat precedes the onrushing lava; human life is impossible within a mile. Wells for miles around have dried up; vegetation is withered.

Still further up the mountain, like a shroud over the destruction wrought by the fiery streams, a steady downfall of ashes, hot cinders, stones and lava fragments and spreading a gaseous blanket, already three inches thick over the entire mountain as far as Giardini.

Roads are Clogged.

As the panicky exodus from threatened towns grows in volume, roads are clogged and the farmers drive their cattle, horses and beasts of burden, upon whose backs is everything they could remove from before the lava, across fields and down drying river beds, in their haste.

Inhabitants of towns that have not yet felt the heat of the descending masses, but whence the uninterrupted incandescent display of giant fireworks from Etna's top is plainly visible, spent a night of terror.

At Piedimonte, the entire population camped out in the public square, huddled together around a statue of St. Anthony praying thruout the night. Church bells tolled incessantly, booming above the voices raised in prayer. Every now and then, new thunder from the mountain top shook the village.

With the dawn, inhabitants of Linga Glossa, believed doomed, held a religious procession as close to the fiery forty foot wall as possible. The lava threatens at any moment to engulf their homes. Against the apparently irresistible advance, they held up a statue of Saint Egidius, their patron saint, credited with having stopped a flow of lava that reached the gates of the city in 1873.

The religious believe implicity that the miracle will be repeated.

Pope Pius and King Victor Emmanuel have interested themselves in the rescue work. The king will come to Catania this evening if news from the devastated areas at Etna's base becomes more alarming, while the pope has ordered all religious buildings on the island thrown open to the refugees.

New Lava Stream.

A new lava stream advanced today toward the town of Giarre, of twenty thousand inhabitants, which is doomed unless some event impossible to foresee intervenes.

Rumblings and leviathanic mutterings beneath the earth over a large area of eastern Sicily continued this morning.

Refugees were thrown further into panic by these demonstrations. Fifty thousand, at least, are housed here, or huddled helplessly in streets and fields while it is estimated close to an equal number have fled elsewhere.

Relief work is being pushed on the outskirts of the stricken localities and all possible aid is being rendered refugees by order of Premier Mussolini.

During the night, second of terror since violent explosions tore the top from the volcano, Etna was an awe inspiring spectacle, looming over the stricken villages like an immense brazier.

Clouds of smoke, floating far away in every direction from the blunt snout of the belching mountain, were lighted up an awesome red by the flames from the crater. Below the fiery inferno, the volcano's sides had split open and from five new mouths ran white lava, spreading an incandescent blanket over the foothills.

LINGUA GLOSSA, Sicily, June 19—The situation here is tragic and desperate, the lava is only 125 feet away.

Houses are crumbling; the heat from the lava is unbearable and repeated earth tremors shake buildings from their foundations

Many inhabitants have fled; soldiers have come in with trenching tools and are working desperately in the hope of diverting the lava from the city proper.

One of the richest and most fertile districts of all Sicily lies beneath an expanse of molten lava.

CAMBRIDGE, Neb., June 19.—A small tornado in the Orafino neighborhood north of Cambridge destroyed the home of Orlando Rodyers. Several barns in that vicinity were torn down. No one was seriously injured.

Hail and rain in torrents accompanied the storm and streams are out of their banks. Orafino is a small town consisting of a postoffice and a few residents in the southeast part of Frontier county.

IDLENESS IS WORLD MENACE.

GENEVA, (By Mail).—Unemployment still continues the most serious economic menace threatening the entire world at the present time. The United States, England and Switzerland, all countries on a sound financial basis now, are virtually the only ones that have succeeded so far this year in seriously overcoming the unemployment situation. In nearly all of the other countries the situation remained virtually the same as last year.

Two hours did not suffice to arrive at any conclusions, and the meeting was continued until 1:30 p. m.

Trustee B. F. Baylor, thru Attorney Alvin F. Johnson, registered a protest against any attempt of the creditors to direct either trustee or court as to private sale of the assets, and charged that the petition on which the meeting was called did not contain sufficient grounds to justify an order for private sale. Among other objections, Mr. Johnson said no sale could be legal now because no appraisement of the eight hotels and other property had been made to the trustee.

"Why hasn't it been made?" the referee interrupted to ask. "I appointed these appraisers the first of the year. If they can't get the work done shall I discharge them and name some others?"

Mr. Johnson replied that the appraisers had made an inventory of the property, without interference from Mr. Eppley, but that a legal appraisement could not be made because Mr. Eppley was still in possession and the trustee could not be sure that all the property inventoried belonged to the estate.

John M. Stewart, representing a number of creditors, said this objection was not well taken, as it was involved in any estate administered by a trustee, and that making an appraisement now would not prevent putting items in or taking them out subsequently.

Mr. Johnson took exception to the consideration of bids at this meeting, on the ground that action now would not be to the best interests of the bankrupt, and that since the Nebraska Hotel company was not insolvent, and had never been adjudicated bankrupt on grounds of insolvency, there would certainly be a surplus and so the stockholders had a real, if not a legal, interest in the proceedings. He agreed that the meeting was proper as a conference between the interested parties, but stood out against direction of private sale by the court.

Mr. Eppley, thru his attorney, John J. Ledwith, again stated his bid, repeating his offer of $900,000 for all the assets, extending the time to June 30, and withdrawing the offer to assume the litigation now pending in the case of the Fontenelle hotel. The last detail was based on his understanding of the trustee's statement that his assumption of this burden would make Bisson real estate dealer and proprietor of the Home restaurant were married in Fremont, Mr. Bisson and his bride-to-be drove to Fremont late Saturday and after the ceremony they drove to Omaha returning to Columbus. Mrs. Bisson will continue in her position as clerk of the district court until the expiration of her present term.

SCOUTS MAROONED ON FREMONT ISLE

Twenty-Three Boys From Ten to Eighteen Have Meager Food Supply as Result of Collapse of Bridge.

FREMONT, Neb., June 19. Twenty three Boy Scouts, ranging in age from ten to eighteen years, are marooned today on Fremont Island, two miles southwest of here as the result of the collapse last night of the old wagon bridge connecting the island with the mainland.

It is reported that they have a very meagre supply of food and strenuous efforts are being made to establish communication with the camp.

The boys were being rescued with boats this afternoon. They were brought over one at a time, large crowds of the banks watching the rescue work.

The river is a raging torrent making the rescue work very dangerous.

PRINCIPALS IN CONTROVERSY OVER CONVICT

Warden W. T. Fenton (left), and Assistant Attorney General Lee Basye, between whom has risen a question of veracity over alleged instructions to a prisoner at Lancaster not to testify against his friend. The convict, Oscar Chard, was taken to Sioux county recently as a witness in an investigation against "Toad" McFarland, but refused to testify, and Mr. Basye said he "had information" that someone in authority at the penitentiary had advised this course. Warden Fenton says this is not true, and demands an investigation.

ADOPTION OF BIG BUDGET

BOARD WILL RETIRE QUARTER MILLION OF BONDS.

Provide For Liquidation of $20,000 of Over Draft and Completion of Saratoga Building—No Open Air School.

The board of education adopted a budget at the Tuesday morning session which provides for $285,000 for retirement of bonds; $40,000 for the completion of the Saratoga building, a nutrition worker in the department of hygiene at a salary of $1,800, and for liquidating $20,000 of the $90,000 overdraft caused by building the Lakeview and Saratoga buildings. The salary lists for instruction and supervision and expense of other departments had been passed upon previously. The board was in session for over four hours. Four member voted in favor of the budget as adopted; one member, Charles Stuart, was absent, and Dr. E. W. Rowe did not vote as he felt that some provision should have been made for an open air school in the distribution of funds.

The total funds available for the year are estimated at $1,223,000, including fines, licenses, state funds and income from all other sources. Of the $1,200,000 allowed from taxation by the legislature, it has been customary to hold back 2 per cent, or $24,000, for

CASHIER TOOK A MILLION?

Alleged Defalcation of $1,500,000 By Philip Drumm Said to Have Caused Bank Failure.

WICHITA, Kas., June 19.—An alleged defalcation of a million and a half dollars by the cashier, Philip A. Drumm, caused the failure of the American State bank, one of Kansas' strongest institutions, the Wichita clearing house announced today.

Affairs of the institution will be turned over to the bank commission and no action taken against Drumm until bank examiners have made their report.

The cashier made a large investment in oil stock, officials said.

PRISON FOR BUCKETING

Edward Fuller and E. F. McBee Given One to Four Years For Bucketshop Tactics.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Edward M. Fuller and E. F. McBee, of the bankrupt "bucketshop" firm of E M. Fuller and company were sentenced today by Judge Nott in general sessions to state's prison for from a year and three months to four years.

Judge Nott, in sentencing the brokers, said he was being lenient because of their alleged poverty and because they had pleaded guilty to "bucketing."

WOULD ENFORCE TAX PAYMENT

Steps Being Taken By Platte County Supervisors.

COLUMBUS, Neb., June 19.—Steps to enforce payment of all delinquent taxes which appear upon the books of the county treasurer being taken by the county board of supervisors. A committee of four were appointed to check up the list of taxpayers who have failed to pay their taxes. The intention is to set the machinery in motion as provided by law to bring the delinquent money into the county's coffers. Members of the board declared that some property owners who are financially able to do so have not paid their taxes for five or six years. Among the number are several who draw pay from the county for labor performed or for goods sold to the county.

Miss Grace Hanly who has served faithfully as county Red Cross nurse the past two years left for a trip to the Pacific coast before reporting at the central division headquarters in Chicago for assignment to a more luerative position in charge of nurses activity in Chicago.

WARDEN ASKS FOR HEARING

INMATE OSCAR CHARD MAKES A POINTED STATEMENT.

Denies That He Was Advised Not to Testify Against a Former Pal and Brands Statement as Being False.

The controversy between Warden Fenton and Attorney Lee Basye, attache of the attorney general's office, promises to bring a showdown. The warden issued a stinging statement Tuesday morning in which he scores the Basye for a statement to the effect that Oscar L. Chard, prison inmate, refused to testify against a pal in Sioux county because some one in authority at the prison told him not to testify.

On the heels of the warden's reply comes a statement from Chard, himself angered at the intimation that he was acting under orders. A reporter visited the penitentiary and asked the privilege of an interview with Chard. This the warden readily granted. He issued an order for Chard to be brought before the reporter alone.

"Have you talked with the warden or with any prison official since your return from Sioux county"?

"I have not."

"Did you talk with the warden or with any official or guard relative to your trip to Sioux county to testify against "Toad" McFarland before you took the stand?"

"I did not".

"Why did you refuse to testify"?

"A fellow inmate named Ingolsby who occupies a room for trusties with several of us, told me that I might incriminate myself in connection with a burglary if I testified. I went to him because I understood that he knew something of the law".

"Did you talk to Attorney Basye either before or after the Sioux county trial"?

"I did not. This man Basye whispered to the prosecuting attorney. The judge told me that if I were not already a prisoner he would sentence me for contempt. I declared that I was standing on my constitutional rights".

"When and under what circumstances did you promise to testify against McFarland"?

"At the time of my conviction the county attorney placed an affidavit before me and said that I must sign. I presume it was a promise to appear as a witness against McFarland".

"When Sheriff Hill came for you did he ask whether or not you would testify"?

"He did not?"

"Did any one ask you that question?"

"No. I knew when I went that I would not testify but assumed that I had to go. If any one says that I talked with a prison official or with any man besides Ingolsby, they tell what is false."

Chard said that he has never talked to the warden but once.

"Shortly after I came in March, the warden asked me what I was sent up seven. I have not talked to him seven. I have no talked to him since."

The warden did not appear to be even interested in what Chard may have told the reporter. But when asked for a statement regarding his opinion of Basye, he went to his desk, took down the telephone and called that gentleman. Here is what he said.

"You get ready to produce your evidence I want you to know that I am going to have a trial. And after we get thru with that, I will take things up with you personally. I want the proof."

DAMAGE NOT GREAT AT SUPERIOR DAM

Repairs Will Soon Be Made By Southern Nebraska Power Company to Its Water Retaining Wall.

SUPERIOR, Neb., June 19. — The damage done by flood to the dam of the Southern Nebraska Power company last week was not nearly so extensive as at first reported. When the company built its new dam in 1920 it widened the Republican river from about 350 feet to nearly 700 feet. For nearly forty years the water of the river at this point had been diverted by a wooden dam built in the old-fashioned crib method.

The new concrete dam was attached to the end of the old one. The old structure had been gradually weakening, and the company has had plans for some time to rebuild that section. The long continued flood which came down the river in May and June placed a heavy strain on the old structure and on last Thursday morning it began to weaken the center of the river not far from where it joins the new concrete structure. A place between piers and forty feet wide partially gave way and permitted the water to run through, taking the water from the mill race.

The piers of the old dam has not undermined the center of the dam and within 30 days to two weeks with good weather repairs will be completed which will again turn the water into the race.

TRACED ON NIGHT TRIP THRU TOWNS

Believed To Be Gang Who Victimized Banks In Nebraska.

MAY BE ENROUTE FOR ST. JOE

Leave Trail of Stolen Cars and Break Into Garage.

WOMAN WITNESSED ROBBERY

Dynamite, Nitroglycerine, Burglar Tools and Guns Found in Abandoned Buick Concealed in Franklin Stockyards.

Nebraska officers are on the trail of four and possibly five bank bandit suspects who have been staging recent robberies in this state. They are believed to be headed for St. Joseph in a Buick car with yellow wheels, trailed by a Ford coupe driven by one of the gang.

Chief Deputy Law Enforcement Officer Tom Carroll has been notified by authorities from several Nebraska towns of their activities as they passed thru and has notified the chief of police at St. Joseph to be on the lookout.

Four men deserted a Buick car at Franklin, Neb., about midnight. Something evidently went wrong with the car and here the bandits stole an Oakland. In the deserted car were found a large quantity of nitro glycerine, revolvers and sawed off shotguns.

The party was traced east from Franklin to Riverton where the Oakland apparently ran out of gas. Here the bandits broke into a garage and stole a new Buick with dealer's number 5054. It had yellow wheels. A woman witnessed the robbery here but she was so terrified she did not report the matter until the robbers had the start of officers.

The bandits were reported to have passed thru Superior between 3 and 4 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Sheriff John Waller of Red Cloud was in communication with State Sheriff Carroll early Tuesday morning. He says that he is certain that the men belong to the same gang who has been robbing Nebraska banks recently and that they are professionals.

FRANKLIN, Neb., June 19.—Last night at 10:15 o'clock Marshal Robert Walker in making his rounds discovered a Buick car concealed in bushes near the stock yards. Throwing his flash light on the car number 90937 Ore., he inquired the business of the occupants. The three men fled leaving the car which contained thirty-eight sticks of dyniamite, full set burlgar tools nitroglycerine, a sawed off shot gun and remington pump gun, and four suitcases packed full of new clothing and food, a sack in which meat had been shipped marked Frank Erichon. This was stolen from the Mutual Oil company tanks, locks having been picked. The Oakland sedan of Charles Chitwood was stolen and driven to Riverton, where it was abandoned and a Buick six stolen from the garage of D. W. Pumroy.

INDICTMENTS FOR SOUDERS

COUNTY TREASURER AT NORTH PLATTE IS HELD.

Many Counts Returned in Grand Judy Finding—Deputy Baker Charged With Arson and Embezzlement.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., June 19.—For the first time since the grand jury began its work a week ago it came into court before Judge Ewell today and returned 134 indictments, 132 against County Treasurer Souder. Each indorsed "True Bille" and signed by W. P. Snyder, foreman

Former Deputy County Treasurer Elmer Baker is separately charged in one indictment with the embezzlement of $8,766.72 and is jointly charged in another indictment with Samuel M. Souder with setting fire to the court house and causing it to be burned on April 20, 1922.

The remaining 132 counts are against Samuel Souder alone charging him separately in 116 counts with the embezzlement of a total of $46,117.77

Then there are twelve counts charging him with forgery of county checks and four counts charging him with forgery of duplicate tax receipts.

The forgery charges are that he drew twelve different checks signed by him as court, treasurer and made them payable to different courts of the county then forged the names of those citizens as indorsements upon the check and deposited them in his own personal account. It is said that the persons who are named in the checks deny that they ever indorsed them or had anything about them.

Up to date the grand jury has examined fifty-eight witnesses, but this work is by no means complete. Just how many more days it will spend in the work is not known, but as long as there is anything of importance to investigate it will doubtless remain on in session. The work of accountants will also keep up until complete. County Attorney Jones and assistant County Attorney Gibbs examined the witnesses before the grand jury and Attorney W. E. Shuman who has been active in prosecuting the case, drew the papers in the case. Sheriff Berthe, this morning, at 10:45 a. m., arrested Mr. Souder and Mr. Baker who will be arranged before Judge Ewell, who will fix their bonds for their appearance at the next term of the district court.

Souder and Baker, his duty, face trial on three charges and 134 counts, according to word reaching State Sheriff Tom Carroll early Tuesday afternoon. The charges are arson, embezzlement and falsifying the county records.

Altho the grand jury is still in session at North Platte, indictments have been returned against these two men. A checking up of the records, according to Mr. Carroll's informant, reveals a shortage against Souder of more than $47,000 and against Baker of more than $9,000.

SENATE WILL BEGIN PROBE

WILKINS ARRIVES TO INVESTIGATE STATE FINANCES.

State Road Department, Specifically Mentioned By Governor Bryan Among Those to Be Examined.

Sstate Senator George Wilkins of Emerson arrived in Lincoln Tuesday to begin an investigation of state departments which is called for by a resolution adopted by the state senate. The house of representatives declined to adopt a similar resolution. Senator Wilkins is one of three appointed by the state senate to do this work. The others are Senator John W. Robbins of Omaha and Senator W. D. Banning of Union.

Senator Wilkins is here to make a preliminary investigation. The others on the committee will be called in later to verify whatever work he may submit to them. In the meantime no information will be given out about the progress of the inquiry or even the departments that are to be scrutinized. It is understood the investigation is to relate wholly to financial transactions of any or all state departments of government.

Whether or not the expense of the investigation can be paid from funds of departments that may come under the inquiry is yet to be determined. The senate resolution calls for the payment of the expenses of the committee out of department funds. This was done when the road department was under investigation by the governor and both houses of the legislature following the legislative session of 1921.

In this present case the senate will investigate on its own hook charged alleged to have been made by Governor Bryan that discrepancies exist in the financial reports of various departments of the state government.

On motion of Reed a committee was appointed to take its own time and report to whom it deems proper with power to summon witnesses and do all things in its judgment ought to be done, expenses of the committee to be paid out of appropriations made for the use of the deartments to be investigated.

As the governor had mentioned specifically the department of public works and its road accounts it is assumed the committee will see whether that department is soon to be without funds to pay its bills for road making. The governor said it had paid out $500,000 for the federal government to contractors without authority of law, and that $558,000 of that had not been repaid by the government which constantly scales down estimates of amounts due from federal funds.

George E Johnson, formerly secretary of the department, was on hand during the passage of the resolution ready to be investigated and to tell his version of the matter mentioned by Governor Bryan. Other departments can be investigated if the committee sees fit as none are specified in the final motion. The investigation may cover all claims made by the governor in the part of alleged lack of state funds to carry the state government thru the biennium or to the end of this year.

LOUP CITY WOMAN SUICIDE

LOUP CITY, Neb., June 19—Mrs. Charles Cox living five miles west of here committed suicide by hanging herself. No cause is given. She leaves a husband and six children.

Interpreting the Political Mood of America

David Lawrence will accompany President Harding on his trip to the Pacific Coast, making a close study of prevailing sentiment as it affects the great political parties and the aspirants for presidential honors in 1924.

No one is better equipped to interpret public sentiment on political and economical questions than is Mr. Lawrence. He knows public men intimately; he senses public opinion with keen discrimination—and writes his impressions with a directness and frankness that puts the reader in possession of dependable facts upon which individual opinion may be formed.

During this trip he will probe below the surface of crowd enthusiasm which always greets a chief executive, whoever he may be—to the undercurrent of public thought, where real opinion and potential influence are to be found. After the trip Mr. Lawrence will sum up with a series of sketches on presidential possibilities and impossibilities.

Mr. Lawrence's dispatches will appear exclusively in Lincoln in The State Journal, beginning Thursday, June 21st.

CONFER ON KING WHEAT

FIVE HUNDRED DELEGATES AT CHICAGO FOR MEETING.

Difficult Problem Declared Involved in Attempt to Increase Price to Farmer For His Grain.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The first national wheat conference of 500 delegates opened here today to "put king wheat back on its throne."

Farmers, bankers, millers, grain dealers, implement manufacturers and representatives of transportation interests gathered with the avowed intention of increasing the price to the farmer that he receives for his wheat.

With warm weather and rain over the grain belt giving promise of a good crop in most sections and prices on the principal grain exchanges slumping heavily, the problem was declared by leaders at the meeting to be a difficult one.

Governors of seven states, headed by Gov. J. A. O. Preus, Minnesota, sponsored today's conference. Representatives of every branch of the wheat industry answered the call to aid the producer.

Governor Preus delivered the opening address of the conference. Other speakers listed included Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, leader of the farm bloc in congress, F. Edson White, president of Armour and company; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester company. Senator Elect Royal S. Copeland, New York, and Dr. Alonzo Taylor, director of the food research institute of Leland Stanford University. The delegates here represent 200 agricultural, financial and manufacturing interests.

Bankers of Chicago and other financial centers of the country were to be asked to join Minneapolis banks in assisting in the war on "black rust" which is threatening the entire wheat crop of the northwest.

Grain experts declared the ravage of black rust could only be halted by private initiative. Government agencies have fought the disease alone in the past.

Today's speakers asserted that with a surplus of 170,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand and a bumper crop promised, farmers are facing necessity of abandoning farms because the margin of profit at present prices is not sufficient to afford a living.

TAXABLE INCOMES INCREASE

From 257,515 in 1914 to 6,662,176 in 1921—Twenty-One Receive Over Million Yearly.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Who are the twenty-one men—or women—who reported that in 1921 they received incomes of $1,000,000 or more?

Uncle Sam's income tax collectors know, but they won't tell. A preliminary report on 1921 income tax returns, recently given out, just says there were twenty-one of them.

Henry Ford, the Rockefellers, father and son, Charles M. Schwab, Judge E. H. Gary, of the steel corporation—these are some of the names that come to mind when $1,000,000 incomes are mentioned. But the identity of the twenty-one is jealously guarded by federal law.

The report contains many other interesting facts and figures, as for instance, the showing that 89,634 wives made separate returns from those of their husbands. Also that 115,356 women in the country reported themselves "head of families."

The growth of income taxation since 1914 is revealed in tables which show that the total number of returns jumped from 357,515 in 1914 to 6,662,176 in 1921.

The figures also show that in most states the average taxable income—hence the average tax, has steadily decreased. This is due in part, of course, to increased exemptions. Some instances follow:

In 1916, the average taxable income in California was $10,760! in 1921 it was $3,025. In Colorado it was $12,143 in 1916, and $2,504 in 1921; in Delaware, $42,941 in 1916, and $2,749 in 1921.

In Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan and many other states the average taxable income went down from about $10,000 to $2,500 or $3,000.

In Ohio it dropped from $14,642 to $2,888.

GERMAN RADIO ACTIVITY.

BERLIN, (By Mail)—Seven out of every ten words sent by radio from Germany is destined for the United States of America. Germany sends approximately 50,000 words a day by wireless telegraph and 35,000 of these are addressed to New York.

A significant point is that of 51,139 words recently sent on one day, 35,000 were for the receiving station at New York, much of it being press matter for the American newspapers and press associations and for relay to South America and the Orient.

After looking at all those curious of the sea, Mr. Editor, me and Nogi got on elevator. going down 22 stories. On ground floor we went over to that brass fence which runs around all stylish ships. and our eyes was astonished to see that we was still hitched to Boston. O fright; maybe something has happened. Maybe chairman Hull democratick ntl committee, have refused to let us go. Maybe Hon. Ogden Mills has brought down a policeman to arrest the boat.

How disappointed.

All over Hon. wharf we can see persons walking it mobbs. looking very uneasy allen. Some of them are people what has not been invited, others are peoples what has. Marching club from national income tax trip from our returns. Then along come female voters' union of America with very grand sign which say:

"Boys, would you go where you dare not take your sweetheart, wife or mother?"

Wren looking at those rebukes it are difficult not to blush myself to death.

Then out of the gen rage there bounce one statesman, looking very Jack Demsey. He glour at me till I am scared light blue.

"Togo," He holla, "I are sirprised to find you on that boy ride. How could you axcept such invitation? Have you no American pride?"

"No, please," I contuse "But I have Japanese pride and that make me very joyful to ride anywhere on free tickets."

When toot, toot! boat start. I happiness, I hope Hon. Captain forgets and lets us off at Cuba where cigars are cheap and do not taste like it. Good by, America, till I get back. All well axcept my stummick, which are beginning to set down the wrong way.

Hoping you are the same.

Yours truly, Hasmimura Togo.

JEWS RAISE TWO MILLION

Have Campaigned For Past Two Years For Funds to Upbuild Palestine.

BALTIMORE, June 19.—Six million dollars have been raised in the past two years by Jewish organizations in the United States devoted to Palestine upbuilding, and of this sum $4,250,000, amounting to 70 per cent of the total has been raised by the Palestine foundation fund (Keren Hayesod), according to a report read at the Zionist convention in Baltimore by Emanuel Neumann, general secretary of the Palestine foundation. The balance of $1,750,000 was raised by various other organizations and agencies interested in the rebuilding of Palestine, including the Jewish national fund, the Hadassah organization, the American Jewish physician committee for the medical college in Jerusalem, the American Zion commonwealth, the Palestine development council and others. Included in the $1,750,000 is the sum of $75,000 for the bonds of the municipality of Tel-Aviv which were floated in the United States thru the efforts of Judge Bernard A. Rosenblatt of New York. In addition to the $6,000,000 considerable sums were also expended in Palestine for relief purposes by the joint distribution committee. The president of the Palestine foundation fund is Samuel Untermyer the eminent New York lawyer. The Palestine foundation fund has constituted the major activity of the Zionist forces in the United States since its establishment in April, 1921. Morris Rothenberg, chairman of the board of direction, says the Jews of America are the mainstay of Palestine in view of the economic ruin of the Jewries of other lands brought about by the war. He says the rate of progress in the rebuilding of Palestine depends principally on the success of this fund. Owing to the increasing support which it is obtaining from the Jews in America he believes that the Jewish national homeland will grow as it has not done before.

FURTHER HEAT WAVE HITS THE MIDWEST

Seven Killed in Chicago in Thirty-six Hours By Climbing Mercury—Dozens of Prostrations.

CHICAGO, June 19.—A heat wave taking a toll of seven deaths in Chicago in thirty-six hours swept the middle west today.

After yesterday's high of 91 the mercury again early today started climbing, sending thousands to bathing beaches for relief

Heat deaths in Chicago include: D. A. Kitch, 68; Charles Carlson, 62; William R. Ryan, 50; Mrs. Jennie Jenkins, 85; Mrs. Kindall Warner, 20; Donald R. Hill, eight; and Stanford Waddy, twelve.

There were dozens of prostrations.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

Rev. E. S. Branch preached the annual memorial sermon before the order at the Free Will Baptist church.

Drunk men were often found obstructing traffic, lying stretched across the sidewalk in any part of town. Officers were usually called for to take the afflicted men to the station, but occasionally friends ran across an acquaintance whom they hastened to get to his own home before he was recognized by curious passersby.

It was estimated that the war with Spain would cost a billion dollars.

The leading scalpers of Omaha had associated themselves together to fight the ordinance by which the city council sought to restrain scalping of railway tickets to the city.

AMHERST CHIEF UNDER FIRE

Dr. Meikeljohn's Fitness to Continue as Head of Amherst Questioned By Some Alumni.

AMHERST, Mass., June 19 Dr Alexander Meikeljohn, president of Amherst college, may remain head of that institution, it was reported early today, following a conference between the president and the board of trustees

When the conference broke up, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning, it was reported that an agreement had been reached and that Dr Meikeljohn would continue as president.

The situation which has been tense and full of conflicting rumors since it was reported Dr. Meikeljohn's fitness to continue as head of Amherst was questioned by some of the alumni and trustees were expected to be cleared up today. Indications were that the board of trusteees would issue a statement before midnight

LONG PIPE LINE FOR GAS.

EDMONTON, Alberta, (By Mail).—Contract for the pipe line to bring gas to Edmonton from the Viking field, a distance of seventy three miles, has been awarded to Ford, Dacon and Davis Engineering company of New York, by the Northern Alberta Gas and Development company.

Prices slumped sharply on the New York stock exchange.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths.

They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

At the first sign of a cold, at the first few warning sneezes, take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. Henry Dean, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., cured a stubborn cold in just that way, and Mrs. Alice Corbbrey of Haskell, Okla., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as constipation, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to infants, and all children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

POLITICS BAR BEST RESULTS

JUDGE WRAY THINKS PEOPLE SHOULD DECIDE FINALLY.

Best Legislation is Made Impossible By Partisan Fights and Direct Legislation is the Only Remedy.

Judge Arthur G. Wray of York has written The Journal a statement reviewing in brief some phases of the work of the legislature during the recent session. He makes the charge that party politics prevented the legislature from doing much good that might otherwise have been accomplished. He believed the people of the state would welcome the opportunity to vote directly upon several important propositions.

His statement follows:

"Party politics prevented much good legislation in the last legislature. I believe the people of the state would welcome the opportunity of voting directly upon several important propositions if placed on the ballot in 1924:

"(1) First would be a constitutional amendment to eliminate party politics from state and county elections and provide for a legislature of one house. Better results would be obtained from a non-political legislature, and the check of one house by the other is not needed when the people have the protection of the initiative and referendum.

"(2) The republican code law and the democratic assembly bill for the reorganization of executive offices clashed all during the session. The result was a political draw. The voters should now deal with the question directly. I believe an amendment can be drawn which will do away with the present dual system, avoid the weakness of the assembly plan, and meet the approval of the people regardless of political lines. The amendment I have in mind does not go as far as the strict short ballot advocate might desire. I would submit an amendment providing for the election by the people of the governor, the lieutenant governor, the railway commission, and state superintendent of schools and then authorize the governor, with the approval of the legislature, to form a cabinet by appointing a secretary of state, an attorney general, a secretary of the treasury, a secretary of labor, a secretary of public lands and buildings, a secretary of trade and commerce, a secretary of public welfare or any other strictly executive officer upon whom the governor must depend in the administration of the law.

(3) Judges and regents to be elected on non-political ballot as at present, provided:

"The proposed cabinet plan follows the federal constitution, authorizing the president to form a cabinet, with the consent of the senate, and it avoids the weakness of the assembly plan which charges the governor with the responsibility of administering the laws with the aid of independent elective state officers who might happen to be the governor's political and personal enemies.

"The cabinet plan provides for the elective of about as many state officers in whom there is a sustained public interest. The right to vote for all of the state executive officers as now provided is not the most valuable right due to the fact that their names appear on our present long ballot. There is not a man in the state, who, without looking it up, can name, (to say nothing of knowing their qualifications) the state candidates who appeared on the long ballot at the last primary and general election.

"There could be no danger in trusting the governor to form a cabinet with the consent of the legislature, because the governor must be elected every two years, and the people could provide later on for the recall of the governor at any time, if a tendency to abuse the appointing power developed, or special interests attempt to dominate the cabinet. It must be admitted that the special interests now have the opportunity of securing representatives among elective state officers in the confusion of voting the long ballot, but the cabinet plan would place executive responsibility where the people could see it and watch it.

"(3) Another proposition I would like to see submitted to the people is the state development of water power by districts.

"(4) Also a law authorizing cities to establish municipal coal yards, thereby authorizing control of the coal monopoly by public competition.

"(5) An initiated amendment to assist farmers thru rural credits and the exemption of farm improvements from taxation would find considerable support thru the state. Some or all of these measures would go a long way to give the people the legislative relief they did not get from the last legislature due perhaps to party politics as much as any other cause."

MORE RAIN IN NEBRASKA

Ashland and Omaha Receive More Than an Inch—Small Washout on the Burlington.

Ashland and Omaha each received more than an inch of rain in the Monday morning showers following 8 o'clock, according to weather bureau reports Tuesday morning. The total for the Monday morning storm in Omaha was 2.16 inches.

The weather bureau reported less than half an inch for Columbus. It is understood, however that the rain was much heavier to the north and west of Columbus than at Columbus. It was sufficient to raise the level of the Loup river there very nearly two feet.

Burlington reports Tuesday morning showed a small washout between Wolbach and Cushing. Water was running thru a small gap in the track in considerable valume. It was necessary also to send the derrick to the Burlingtoon's Loup river bridge at Columbus to remove driftwood, which had thrown the bridge slightly out of line. Tuesday afternoon water ran over the Burlington tracks for a considerable distance to the west of the bridge. Reports from Grand Island indicated that considerable damage had been done to the Union Pacific branch lines to the north of that city. High water in the Loup river and tributaries caused a rather disastrous flood.

BUILDING HUGE SUBMARINE.

LONDON, June 19.—England is deserting the surface of the seas. Following the greatest scrapping of naval armament the world has ever seen, England has set out to build a fleet of super-submarines. The first of these monsters will soon be completed at Chatham shipyard. Germany's "Deutschland," which crossed the Atlantic during the war, winning the plaudits of friends and enemies, would be a pigmy beside this new giant.

CLOSING GAP ON BREAKERS

DEFINITE LINE ON LAST OF RUNAWAY PRISONERS.

Two in California Prison Serving Time For Burglary—Will Be Returned to Nebraska When Terms Cut.

The last of the nine prisoners who escaped from the Lancaster county jail under the leadership of Harold McGlothlen, are under lock and key—all but one and he is believed to be near the net. Warden Fenton is in receipt of word from California authorities that Harry J. Weidner and C. A. King alias Andy Lynch are in prison at Folsom. Weidner was first received at San Quentin June 3, 1923. He was convicted of burglary and sentenced to serve five years. King alias Lynch was received in March of this year and is serving from one to ten years for burglary. Broune Keptnske is at large but Nebraska authorities have a line on him.

Weidner, King and Keptnske were brought to Lincoln from Dakota county late in the summer of 1921. They were arrested in Sioux City August 13 of that year as fugitives. They were turned over to the sheriff of Dakota county and upon trial and conviction for the robbery of clothing and jewelry stores, were brought to this city. The penitentiary was overcrowded and they were placed in custody of Sheriff Miller until room could be found for them. McGlothlen and others conceived the idea of escape. A side of the frail prison wall was torn out and nine men, the entire jail population, walked out. Several were captured. McGlothlen and a pal were rounded up by Chief of Police Peter Johnstone single handed northeast of the city.

The three charges of Warden Fenton, however, reached the clear. Altho the authorities have been close on the trail of Keptnske Weidner and King apparently dropped out of sight. They will be returned to Nebraska at the expiration of their California terms.

The warden is in receipt of a letter from the warden of the state prison at Walla Walla, Wash., asking for the record of John McCann alias Jack Conners alias "Missouri Slim" alias J. Walker alias Frank Allen. He was received at the Washington prison on June 3 last after being convicted for possession of narcotic drugs. The Nebraska records show that John McCann alias Frank Allen was received at the Nebraska prison twenty-two years ago. He was convicted of assault and sentenced to eighteen months which he served. The incident causes the warden to wonder if a man, once taught his lesson, will go straight for more than twenty years and then go bad again. McCann is fifty-four years old.

LOUP VALLEY WATER SWEPT

TOWNS INUNDATED AND RAILROAD TRACKS WASHED OUT.

Crops Badly Damaged and Telephone and Telegraph Service Demoralized—Water at Fullerton Recedes.

COLUMBUS, Neb., June 19.—The worst flood in years is raging in this section today, caused by the overflow of the Loup river.

Towns are inundated, railroad tracks washed out, bridges weakened or swept away, telephone and telegraph service demoralized, and crops badly damaged.

Eighty state Y. M. C. A. boys are marooned at Camp Sheldon, midway between the Loup and Platte rivers near here. Water from both rivers inundated their camping place to a depth of several feet but it is believed they have taken refuge in the dining hall of the camp which is on ground high enough to avoid disaster.

The flood in the Loup is receding today and the boys at Camp Sheldon will be probably taken off this afternoon.

Every creek and river in east central Nebraska from the Dakota line to the Platte river is raging torrent.

Half a dozen were inundated and scores of farmers families driven from their homes to higher ground. Much livestock is reported drowned and crops will be a total failure.

Thousands of Acres Flooded

Thousands of acres of the richest farm land in Nebraska are inundated.

Many miles of railroad track was washed out. Communication by rail or road will not be reestablished in some sections for days.

The Union Pacific had to abandon its branch lines running north and west of Columbus and the Chicago and Northwestern's "Rosebud iLne" into the Rosebud country of South Dakota is washed out in several places in Boyd county, Nebraska.

The crest of the flood in eastern Nebraska is emptying into the Platte river today and towns east and south of Fremont fear that stream may overflow and cause the worst flood in years.

A serious situation is also reported in western Nebraska where the Platte river, swollen by recent cloudbursts in Colorado, is threatening several Nebraska towns.

It is impossible to cross the Loup river bridge at Columbus because of the water sweeping over the bridge approaches and the roadway for a distance of half a mile. Passengers on the Burlington road have to be taken off trains at the bridge in rail motor cars.

The towns of Fullerton and St. Edwards were under three feet of water yesterday. The water had receded at Fullerton early today, leaving the city streets covered with several feet of mud. Many farmer families were removed from their homes near Fullerton in boats yesterday when the water had endangered their lives.

At the point where the Loup and Platte rivers meet four miles south of here the water is almost up to a high bank which in normal times is fifteen feet above the water line. Barns, outbuildings, dead stock, parts of bridges and culverts are being carried down the Loup and emptied into the Platte.

Mile Wide at Monroe.

The river is a mile wide at Monroe. Thousands of acres of land in that section have been covered with water and much livestock drowned.

Farmers in the lowlands of the Loup and Platte rivers are taking to higher ground with what few personal belongings they can carry with them.

The three Union Pacific branch lines connecting Columbus with Norfolk, Spalding, Fullerton, Genoa and Albion will be out of commission for several days.

Miles of track on these lines are reported washed out.

The flood was caused by heavy rains early Monday morning. At Fullerton six inches fell in three hours, while an average fall of about two inches was reported.

The storm was accompanied by a heavy hail storm and grains not inundated were badly damaged by the hail.

NORFOLK, Neb., June 19.—The towns of Bristow and Lynch, near here, were flooded when Ponca creek overflowed, and families living in the lower portions of both towns were forced to abandon their homes. At Lynch the water rose so rapidly many families found themselves marooned, and women and children were rescued by men on horseback.

The Chicago and Northwestern Rosebud line is reported washed out for several miles in the vicinity of Spencer and Lynch. Officials said it would probably be several days before traffic is normal. Seven inches of water fell in the section.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., June 19.—Small streams in central Nebraska are again swollen, Wood river being out of its banks, but no serious damage is reported.

LEXINGTON, Neb., June 19.—Brule, Neb., is preparing for its worst flood in history, according to word received here today. Already the waters of the Platte river, swollen by the recent cloudbursts in Colorado, are within 100 feet of the town. Farmers from outlying districts report the waters to be rapidly rising over the prairie lands.

NORTH BEND, Neb., June 19.—Thousands of acres of land between North Bend and Ames on the west side of the Union Pacific right-of-way is under water and growing crops have been damaged to the extent of many thousand dollars and the entire potato crop has been ruined.

Everything between the river and North Bend up to within half block of the Union Pacific tracks is under water and farmers in that section are getting ready to move out. There is danger of a bridge over a slough between town and the river going out.

FREMONT, Neb., June 19.—The flood from the Loup river is in evidence here. The Platte river is high and in some places is leaving its banks. The situation at the Northwestern's Platte river bridge forecasts trouble if the rise continues much longer.

CHICAGO CHAUFFEURS STRIKE

Officials of Union Halt Funeral After Men are Ordered to Walk Out.

CHICAGO, June 19.—A strike of chauffeurs in the Chicago auto livery union threatened to spread and tie up dozens of funerals here today.

The funeral of Albert G. Lang was halted by officials of the union after drivers for the undertaking company had been ordered to "walk out." The cortege was delayed until an independent liveryman could be found.

The chauffeurs are asking a wage increase.

Paul Cornoyer, noted artist, died at East Gloucester, Mass.

SWITCH RATE IS INCREASED

NECESSARY TO ADJUST COST OF HAULINGS TO CAPITOL.

In Final Windup Burlington Will Make Readjustments So That at Present Brick Contractor Affected.

The state railway commission has authorized the Burlington railway to collect $2.50 a car hereafter instead of $2.25 for switching to the capitol. In the beginning it had an arrangement with the capitol commission by which it would be paid $2.50 for every car handled on the commission road from Eighth and H streets to Fourteenth and H. This sum it collected from the shipper or the road that supplied the loaded cars. When the 10 per cent reduction in rates was ordered some time ago this left the Burlington collecting only $2.25 and paying out $2.50. This order restores this rate insofar as interstate shipments are concerned.

From material outside the state brought in by the other roads and handled by the Burlington from the transfer track to the interchange track at the bottom of H street, the old rate was $5.00. The 10 per cent reduction cut this to $4.50. After the Burlington had paid $2.50 of this to the commission it was left with only $2.00 for its work instead of the $2.25 to which it was entitled and which represented a return on the sum it had to invest in order to bring the cars from the transfer to the interchange track. Two of the outside roads rather objected to this, but others did not.

At the present time the shipments of stone and other stuff from outside is evenly divided between the railroads. When the brick starts to coming from Yankee Hill it will be an entirely Burlington movement. The contractor is the only man interested in the readjustment of switching rates and he was agreeable.

When the capitol is completed and the railroad torn up there will be a readjustment with the Burlington by the commission of the whole matter and it was because of this and the other factors stated that the commission permitted the increase.

Grease Spots Rot Materials, Spread Disease
Pittsburg, Penn.—Experiments here have proved that dry cleaning at regular intervals prevents the rotting of materials.
Every grease spot, though apparently unnoticeable, causes a decay that spreads germs and ruins the fabric of the goods.
Have your clothes cleaned often at a reputable plant to lengthen their life and prevent the spread of contagion. National campaign for your protection.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

NECK BROKEN BUT WORKS THREE DAYS

Lloyd Halferty, Eighteen Years Old, Falls From Motorcycle Wednesday and Goes to a Doctor Sunday.

For three days Lloyd Halferty of R. F. D No 1, worked at his job in the stockyards near Yankee Hill with his neck broken, and only went to the St Elizabeth hospital Sunday evening after he had received another bump at a ball game. Altho his fever Sunday was 101, he improved Monday, and Dr. J. Stanley Welch, the attending physician, believes that he has a good chance for recovery.

Mr. Halferty, who is about eighteen years old, fell from his motorcycle Wednesday afternoon, but felt little the worse except for a soreness in his neck. At a baseball game Sunday however, a lad jostled his head, and the neck became acutely painful.

Doctor Welch says that the spinal cord was not crushed, as is often the case in such injuries, so that Halferty has a fair chance, altho little can be told this early. Four such cases have been under the care of Doctor Welch in the last two years, and in two instances, the spinal cord was crushed so that the body was paralyzed and death came within a few weeks. No paralysis has made itself apparent in this case.

FIX DATE OF EGBERT TRIAL

Hastings Physician Has Been Arraigned and Declares He Is Not Guilty.

HASTINGS, Neb., June 18.—By agreement of counsel trial of Dr. C. L. Egbert, charged with first degree murder in the shooting of his son-in-law, Charles R. Gordon, last February, was set for trial at 9 o'clock Thursday when the impaneling of the jury will begin.

The surgeon was arraigned this afternoon, and entered a plea of "not guilty."

L. B. Stiner, counsel for the defense, moved to quash the information, saying it was the short, or Rose form, and does not charge a crime. Overruling the motion Judge Dilworth said it was an innovation that aims to effect much needed reform, and declared he would do all he can to make it stand.

It is said to be the first time the short form has been used in the state. Dr Egbert shot his son-in-law as the young man and his wife entered the surgeon's residence, Gordon dying instantly with a 45 caliber bullet in his heart, according to officials.

Mrs. Gordon, who recently gave birth to a daughter is the only witness of the tragedy. She has been called by the state.

Only very fragmentary sketches of trouble between Dr. Egbert and his son-in-law have been revealed, and the disclosures of the trial will hold wide attention here.

K. C. S. Engineer Tells How He Gained 37 Pounds

"When I start praising Tanlac I hardly know when to put on brakes," is the characteristic statement of Owen E. Moore, 1328 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., for many years engineer on the K. C. Southern. "The treatment put my whole system back in good running order and my weight went up from a hundred and fifty to three to a hundred and ninety pounds.

"A bad case of flu left me so run down I could hardly walk down the street, and the way I lost weight alarmed me. Indigestion kept me in misery, constipation, biliousness and headaches were some of my worst troubles, and I was so unstrung a good night's sleep was out of the question.

"The Tanlac treatment soon had me back on the right track in fast time. My digestion is first-class, everything I eat agrees with me, and I feel as sound and fit as I ever did. Tanlac gets my O. K. every time."

Tanlac is for sale by all druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—Advertisement.

TO USE RIB FOR A JAW

Bonegrafting Operation for Jack Burton, Sufferer From Cancer.

BEATRICE, Neb., June 18.—A rare operation in bone grafting was performed at a local hospital today when a piece of his rib was grafted into the jaw of Jack Burton, a former Union Pacific brakeman. Burton has been a sufferer for some years past with cancer of the mouth. The flesh and the bone of a corner of the mouth had been eaten away and broken down by the progress of the disease. Today a portion of the eighth rib, of the right side of the patient, with a flesh attachment for cultural purposes and to assist in growth was removed and transplanted to the jaw, the operation being performed by Dr. H. M. Pepperton, assisted by Dr. C. A. Anderson. The patient stood the shock of the operation in splendid style, and there is every indication that it will result successfully.

CALLS A HALT IN HOTEL CHAIR HUNT

Instructed That Those Who Rest and Loaf and Take the Air Not Commercializing City Sidewalk Spaces.

After listening to the views of his colleagues on the hotel chair subject, Commissioner Cowgill turned toward Chief of Police Johnstone at Monday's council meeting and told him to call his patrolmen off the chair hunt. He first announced that, in his opinion, the proper ruling would banish empties from the walks which skirt shady sides of certain hotel properties. He suggested that any member of the outside hotel circle be allowed to sit upon a chair, either straight or tilted, after he had arranged with the management for use or followed an existing usage. The chair, however, to be returned to the hotel after the user abandoned it.

Commissioner Dayton suggested that if hotel chairs are pulled in only when out of use, there would be little pulling before 1 a. m. Mr. Schroeder suggested that some members of the circle are old and feeble. It would be necessary, he thought, for them to engage the services of chair carriers at a fixed salary. And some cannot afford the luxury. Commissioner Cowgill agreed. He said that there's a human element which removes the issue from the commercial class. Thus the hotel chair is removed from the order dealing with sidewalk clearance.

The street department complained that free air at the curb is being used to excess for the apparent purpose of increasing the white line stretch. Messrs. Wright and Cowgill are to get together with a view of amending the resolution granting the privilege to those who serve air to the motorist.

Altho the city hospital board and the board of directors of the Lincoln hospital association are one and the same, both names are used in the council's resolution of Monday which instructs the mayor and the city engineer to execute a contract with Ernest Rokahr & Sons for the building of the new city hospital. Both names were used in the will of the late R. E. Moore. The board is recognized as the city agency. The resolution awards the contract in accordance with the board's recommendation. The board recommends that the contract be awarded on the basis of $218,165 less a deduction of $14,500 for omitting third floor finish, leaving a net contract amount of $203,665. It further recommends that the contract include a provision that at any time within four months from date, the contract may be amended to include this item.

A petition signed by officers of the Mt. Zion Baptist church and protesting against a filling station permit already granted, was submitted. The proposed station will be located at the northeast corner of Twelfth and F streets. When the council voted on the permit, Commissioner Wright said that the church people were not objecting. The Sinclair Refining company asks for permission to locate a station at Sixteenth and M, northeast corner. The request was referred to Mr. Wright.

Mr. Cowgill declined to consider a petition signed by R. E. Richardson and ninety-nine others asking for vacation of a part of the south side of F street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth.

"The petition is for the essential purpose of protecting Mr. Richardson who built one house extending three feet over city property and who repeated the offense," he said. "Here is a flagrant violation and a repetition of it. The council cannot consider protection of law violation. I am satisfied that many who signed the petition did so under a misapprehension."

The council passed a resolution which provides for a white line in front of the city library for a stretch of twenty-five feet. Another resolution places the two-hour restriction for parking on the remaining portions of the half block on the east side of Fourteenth street, between N and O.

WAS A CONFEDERATE VETERAN

Captain Jennings, Who Is Dead, Always Marched With G. A. R.

TABLE ROCK, Neb., June 18.—Capt. R. P. Jennings of Table Rock, who came to this county fifty years ago, died at the Methodist hospital at Omaha June 17, after an illness of many months. He was very ill at the time of his wife's death, December 30, 1922. Richard Polk Jennings was born in Virginia November 12, 1844. At the age of seventeen he was forced to enter the service of the confederates and soon rose to the rank of captain.

He strove to enter the service of his country once more at the breaking out of the Spanish war, but owing to his age he failed. He always said he wished to fight once on the right side. On all patriotic occasions he has always marched with the G. A. R. the same as tho he had served in the United States army. The body will be brought here for burial and services are planned to be on Tuesday or Wednesday.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Seventy-five members of the D. A. R. attended the luncheon which given Monday noon at the Lincoln hotel in honor of Mrs. E. G. Drake of Beatrice, national vice president general from Nebraska. The guests were seated at one large table which was attractively decorated in a color motif of red, white and blue. Large baskets of garden flowers carrying out the color scheme were placed thruout the room, and on the table the candles were also in patriotic colors. Mrs. A. R Congdon, former national vice president general introduced the speakers and a short talk was given by Mrs Drake followed by a group of songs by Mrs. H. W. Meginnis. Commemorating the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, Miss Marie Reichenbach gave a reading on "The Battle of Bunker Hill," which was followed by a history of the local chapter of D. A. R. given by Mrs. W. A. Rankin. Mrs. Philo Buck, who recently returned from India, gave a short talk on the conditions for women in that country, and Miss Hansa Mehta of Maroda, India, daughter of the prime minister, talked on the educational conditions in her native land. A clever playlet, a takeoff on school days, was given by seven little children. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. I. M. Campbell, Columbus; Mrs. F D. Larmon, Mrs. J. J. Stubbs, Omaha; Miss Roxey Ammerman, Fairmont; Mrs. E. G. Drake, Mrs. W. M. Jackson, Mrs. D. F. Dalby, Mrs. Adam McMillin, Beatrice; Mrs. B. G. Miller, Mrs. Oscar Miller, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. Osterhoup, Mrs. Milks, Crete; Mrs. E. G. Bullock, Wichita, Kas.,; Frank Ringer and Mrs. E. H. Bush, Tecumsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hovland entertained at a prenuptial dinner Monday evening at the country club honoring their daughter, Helen, and Clarence Swanson, whose marriage will take place Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents. The guests included members of the two families, the bridal party and out-of-town guests who are in Lincoln for the wedding. Places were arranged for thirty-five at one large table. A large wedgewood bowl of garden flowers formed the centerpiece and rose candles in wedgewood candleholders tied with rose tulle added to the attractiveness of the table. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Flindt and Misses Lillian and Charlotte Flindt and John Flindt of Spencer, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hovland, Chicago; Mrs. O. A. Sardeson and son, John, Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. C. T. Sardeson and daughter, Mabelle, Oak Park, Ill.; Miss Gusta Brundin, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brundin, and Mrs. Beth Prentice, Albert Lee, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ausland, and Miss Kathryn Ausland, Emmetsburg, Ia.; Mrs. Nels Swanson, mother of the groom, Mrs. Carl Lundahl, Mrs. Earl Dalton, and Harry Swanson, Wakefield.

Miss Fern Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Myers of University Place whose marriage to Henry Mooberry will take place Wednesday evening was guest of honor at a surprise miscellaneous shower Monday afternoon for which Miss Dorothy French and Miss Vernetta Parli were hostesses. The party was given at the home of Miss Parli and about twenty-five friends of the bride were present. Out-of-town guests who will come Tuesday for the wedding will be Mrs. Jack Cherry and daughter, Frances of Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulburt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beerup, Mrs. George Schroeder and daughter, Donna Eileen, Miss Fay Hulburt, Oakland; Mrs. Ray Hoagland, Grand Island; Dr. and Mrs. Lamb, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Krull, Sprague; Miss Mary Wettling, Evanston, Ill.

Col. J. H. Quigley and Mrs. Quigley of Valentine, are here for a two days' visit. Mrs. Quigley will join her daughter, Miss Ruth, at Chicago Wednesday, and later in the week they will sail on the Olympic for a three months' tour of Europe. Miss Quigley has been teaching at Hibbon, Minn. Colonel Quigley is one of the pioneers of Cherry county, and is now serving his second term as mayor of Valentine. He is a retired ranchman and banker, and owner of the Boiling Springs ranch.

E. Parks Estes, recently connected with an insurance company of Lincoln, left Monday on Burlington train No. 2 to spend a year in the study of advanced mathematics at the University of Ann Arbor, Mich. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, ande has carried graduat work in mathematics there for the past year or so while in the employe of the insurance company.

Miss Helen Whitla of Butte who has been visiting at the home of her cousin, Miss Dorothy Swallow was suddenly called to her home and left Monday morning accompanied by Miss Swallow who went with her as far as Omaha. Miss Swallow will remain in Omaha about three days.

Alvin D. Linch, and Miss M. O. Johnson of Lincoln were married last Saturday and will make their home in Lincoln. Mr. Linch is chief clerk in the state treasurer's office.

A FEW OF THE EXPERIMENTAL PLOTS AT THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

Experiments in a variety of Nebraska crops are being carried on in several hundred plots of varying sizes at the agricultural college farm, which visitors are invited to inspect Wednesday. No. 1 designated as field day. No. 1 shows a field of improved Nebraska 21 oats that will yield 80 bushels to the acre. This strain outyields common Kherson oats about 8 per cent. No. 2 is a field of spring wheat where several varieties are being tested. No. 3 is a view of the annual forage crops experiment, showing rates of seeding cane for forage. This picture was made last year. No. 4 is part of the winter wheat nursery. The photograph shows the difference in lodge resistance of different strains.

MOESCHLER DIES MONDAY EVENING

State President of the Eagles, Who Was Hurt in Accident at Dorchester, Succumbs to His Injuries.

Louis Moeschler, state president of the fraternal order of Eagles, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital at 6:05 p. m Monday as a result of a plunge by his auto over a bridge. His companion, George Miller, is in a critical condition at the hospital. It is believed, however, that he will live. Both sustained fractured skulls. In addition to injuries to his head, Mr. Moeschler suffered a crushed chest and a broken collar bone.

While Louis Moeschler lay on a bed at St. Elizabeth's hospital on the point of death and George Miller, his companion, exhibited signs of recovery on his bed in the same room, Saline county officers were endeavoring to get in touch with men of another car who were but a short distance ahead when the two men were hurled fourteen feet after their car plowed thru the side of the Turkey creek bridge. Schriff Henry Greer of Saline and County Attorney Mekota were in consultation with State Sheriff Carroll. The attorney brought to Lincoln three grips found in the wreckage. These were opened at law enforcement headquarters.

Seven half-pint bottles filled to the brim were taken from one. A second grip was found to contain in addition to wearing apparel, a quart bottle of alleged wine filled to about four-fifths capacity. A bottle containing but a small amount also was brought to Lincoln. The third grip contained nothing but clothing. The several bottles are to be taken to the state chemist for analysis of their contents.

Both the attorney and the sheriff had made a careful study of the bridge and its surroundings before coming to Lincoln. They agreed that the road was smooth at both approaches.

"The bridge is smooth as a dime," said the sheriff. "We cannot understand why they were on that road. Presumably they were going to Hastings. That road would not take them there. They were going south instead of west. The tracks show that they were on the proper side of the road and that the car was running straight until it took a sudden lunge into the railing. I have taken the automobile under instructions from Mr. Carroll to sell it."

Both officials declared that nothing was wrong with the steering apparatus. Every spoke in one wheel was pulverized yet the tire and rim were not damaged.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I have read your advice—even had some sent to me. Two years ago I met a man—married—with a family. Thru fate we have been thrown together for two years. We have both loved for a year and a half.

I wanted to be square with his wife and, Mary, told the man I hated him, was mean, and tried my best to make him hate me. I laughed when he mentioned love. But while my heart was breaking to see him suffer, and because I loved him, I did those things. She mistrusted me and I got where I couldn't stand it and one day she called me before him. I thought it no use to lie when she mistrusted me anyway, so I told before her that I cared.

But if she would but have trusted me I would have carried my sorrow to my grave unknown. He has drank poison twice. I have stood before him when he has cried like a baby, suffering all a man could bear, and sneered to make him hate me. But oh, deep in my heart was a prayer for him, for I loved him.

I loved his wife until she called me such vile names, of which I am innocent, but I still would stand by her. One day the man said I had to talk to him or he would drink strychnine before my eyes, and he did take some and almost died. I went to see him. I did not want to be the cause of his death.

He told me some day he was coming for me. Mary, shall I trust to fate? Do you think that God is love? I do, and oh I trust and pray for her sake and his. I never go with anyone else, for my love is too true, and I shall live in my dreams if I can't have the man I love. He is a true, good Christian man.

I want to be straight and good. This worries me till I wish I were dead; it would be a glad happening for me. —Broken Hearted.

A. Probably his wife was driven to desperation by the knowledge that he thought he loved you. What would you have done, had you been in her place?

If you cannot leave the vicinity where you are constantly thrown with him, tell him your feelings have changed, and stick to it. Say it over and over to yourself and make it a reality. I wouldn't stay faithful to him, either, if I were you. I would go out with other men. There is some other man, many others, perhaps, you would love just as well, if you but knew them. I never believed in the "only one" theory. I believe that there are perhaps hundreds of men any one girl could be happy with; hundreds of girls any one man could love deeply and sincerely, if they were but thrown in his way.

You know you are ruining your life by this infatuation, don't you? And don't think me cruel when I say that any man who threatens to take his own life because a girl will not see him, is a coward, as well as mentally deficient. I believe both you and his wife would be much, much better off, were he to go far from you both.

You owe it to yourself to try to reconstruct your life. Love is not everything, as many people have proved. It is desirable, worth having, but man can live without it. God is love, but human love cannot be compared to His until it is all self-sacrificing and unselfish. You say you have tried to play square with his wife. Play square with yourself and give yourself a chance to overcome this love. Absence and distance are the only potent remedies.

Dear Mary Gordon: I wrote to this column some time ago, but I didn't see it in print. It was best, I guess, as I was pretty angry when I wrote it.

I read "Perplexed's" letter and I can sympathize with her greatly because I had a very similar experience not so very long ago. This boy had just arrived in town, however. But I liked him, and I thought he liked me, tho people all said he was "tough." But soon I learned my lesson. Everybody began talking and they acted so queer, especially the boys. Finally I found that "wild tales" had been distributed around by him. At first I just suspected they were, but now I'm sure, as he told "wild ones" about other girls also. This made me terribly angry and I avoided him and would not notice him only when I had to for—oh decency's sake. I guess that's what you'd say.

"Perplexed," I believe Mary's advice is good and I hope your letter and mine may help other girls—make them think before they go with boys with a "questionable rep," don't you? At least to watch their steps. All this happened a little over a year ago and I've just come back to normal again. I wouldn't go with a single boy almost all summer, and when I did go I sure watched my step. I guess at last they are satisfied that I'm not "that kind of a girl."

Now I want to ask you a few questions. Do you have to sign your own name and your "play name" both? I've often wondered. I am doing so for the sake of the doubt. Also, I would like to correspond with "Perplexed." They say trouble loves company. If you know her address please send it to me. Anyway, print this, and maybe she'll read it.—A Modern Girl.

P. S.—If you don't print this I'll write again (probably will anyway).

A. Girls surely should be careful not to go with "questionable" young men. It never pays.

I remember using your other letter—believe I pruned it down a bit, however. That's the spirit, if I don't use your first effort, keep right on trying. Some day you'll say something which will make the column. No, you needn't sign your real name.

Dear Mary Gordon: I must have advice for my problem, and that as soon as possible. I am going with a young man one year my senior and have been going with him for over a year. He comes very often to see me; he lives here, and tells me that he loves me, and I truly did love him. He as even asked me to become engaged to him some time ago, and I said, yes I would, and we are to be married this fall. The other day I felt that I could not like him any more, and I feel that way yet, and I know I thought I did love him. Mary Gordon, don't you think that this hate of him should have come sooner if we were not to go with each other?

Last night he came to see me. I told him all about it. He was really heart-broken; he told me to try so hard to love him again, for he loved me so. I told him to give me some time to decide. What shall I do, Mary? Do you suppose it would be the right thing to quit him, or what shall I do?—Hate.

A. That's a pretty awful name to sign, little girl. Don't believe I'd use it, even in fun. You don't really hate, do you? Just stopped caring for the young man.

Love, or what we call love, is a whimsical, eccentric thing, sometimes. Flies in the window one day, remains a while, then returns the same way it came. Sometimes we wish to keep it, are sorry it is gone. Once in a great, great while it returns in the same guise. Usually it wears a different dress.

I would give the young man a chance, convince both him and myself that this new feeling is not a mere passing fancy.

Perhaps this will help you:

Imagine a future without this young man. How would it seem if you never saw him again, or heard that he was married to some other girl? How would life be if you were not sure that he loved you?

If you can truly answer to yourself that you do not care about him, the best thing would be to end the affair now.

Bubbles: Some jewelry for personal use, a bill fold or a smoking stand would be appreciated by your fiance.

A little baby's skin is very tender and if he is handled roughly in dressing he will be made very uncomfortable. All clothing should be drawn off and on over his feet.

Baby's complete dress consists of a band, shirt, diaper, skirt, dress and bootees, none of which should be heavy or stiff. Add a little short jacket for cool mornings and evenings. When he is a few months old all his clothing may be taken off for a few minutes in the middle of a hot summer day and he may be allowed to roll and play on the bed.

Fancy garments have no place in a little baby's wardrobe. For the first few weeks of his life he does little but eat, sleep and grow. He needs many clean and very simple clothes. Starched garments and laces about the neck may irritate his tender skin and cause him much discomfort. The irritations are sometimes hard to heal.

BABY'S CLOTHING.

Clothing Needs.

Baby should have three flannel abdominal bands of soft, white, unhemmed flannel, fourteen to eighteen inches long and five to six inches wide—wide enough to protect the abdomen and not wide enough to wrinkle. They should go once and a half around, lap across the front, and pin at the side. After a few weeks the first bands may be replaced by three knitted ones whose lower part is made of wool and their upper part of cotton. If made with shoulder straps and a tab to pin to the diaper they will not slip around baby's chest and make him uncomfortable. In hot weather all cotton or silk shirts may be worn. They should fit smoothly and may either lap or button in front.

Three pairs of bootees (three pairs of merino or cassimere stockings (for cold weather) and three soft woolen blankets are required.

convenient. For the first few weeks, if the weather is not hot, eighteen-inch diapers will do.

Other Clothes.

Eight slips are required, six plain white ones and two "company" ones. The every-day ones should be cut by a kimono-sleeve pattern, with a tape run thru a facing about the neck and sleeves. They may be twenty-one to twenty-seven inches long, never more. The "company" ones may have bishop sleeves and some embroidery; but set-in sleeves are hard to put on a little baby. Four light flannel shirts, cut princess style, should be worn under the slips.

For cool mornings, baby needs three short kimono-sleeve jackets made of white flannel and closely knitted or crocheted; loose stitches or scallops catch on baby's fingers.

For sleeping, four nighties or sleeping bags of white flannel are necessary. Draw tapes thru the hem and the sleeves of the nighties will keep baby's hands warm. Sleeping bags are made thirty-three inches long and twenty-seven inches wide, opening and buttoning down the front. Baby can be changed without taking him out of the bag.

A wrap and hood for outdoor wear may be made like a sleeping bag of eiderdown or flannel. At four months the corners may be opened to let out baby's hands, and when he begins to walk the bag may be made into a coat.

Touch all garments, particularly woolen ones, to the cheek and make sure that they are warm and dry before putting them on baby.

IDENTIFIES WOMAN AS TESMER SLAYER

Mrs. Francis Thompson of Chicago Said By Mrs. Tesmer to Be "Smiling, Blue-Eyed Bandit."

CHICAGO, June 19.—Mrs. Francis Thompson, thirty-two, alias Fred G. Thompson, a cabaret habitue, was identified today as the "girl bandit with a smile and blue eyes" who killed Richard Tesmer, insurance adjuster during a robbery at the latter's "gold coast" home recently.

Police said the prisoner was abnormal and posed sometimes as a man and sometimes as a woman.

Mrs. Tesmer, the widow who witnessed the slaying, dramatically made the identification, Chief of Detective Michael Hughes announced.

Mrs. Thompson, declared to be abnormal, some times posing as a man at cabarets and some times as a woman, was taken in a raid on a northside apartment she occupied with a man and a woman.

She protested when the raiding squad entered that she was "not wanted for the Tesmer murder because I have black hair and the girl you are looking for is a blonde" according to Sergt. William Cusack, leader of the squad.

Moved by this unexpected protest, Cusack and Hughes took her to the Tesmer home where Mrs. Tesmer has been in a state of collapse since the killing. Mrs. Thompson was taken into the parlor and Mrs. Tesmer called from her bedroom.

Mrs. Tesmer, who has refused to identify a score of girls, glanced at the suspect. Her body became tense and her face pale.

"O, God! That's the girl. That's the girl that killed Richard.

"She has that smile that haunts me day and night and her eyes are those I saw when she wantonly shot my husband."

Mrs. Tesmer, weak and nervous, made a move as if to attack the prisoner and then became hysterical. She was led back to bed, sobbing, her quest for "a certain kind of blue eyes and a smile," ended, she said.

Mrs. Thompson said she came here three years ago from Reynolds, O. She declared she will prove an alibi.

"I am not afraid of Mrs. Tesmer's identification," she said. "I know I didn't kill Tesmer. I never carried a gun in my life.

"I am living with my husband."

Mrs. Thompson is a mystery to police. She recently has been known about cabarets here as Miss Frances Carrick, she admitted. In the apartment where she was captured were found the clothing of both men and women which she claimed. A nun's costume also hung in the closet. Near it lay a revolver.

The prisoner was dressed in attractive feminine black attire when arrested. Her features appeared small and refined. At the police station, however, she was made to wash the paint from her face and a closely shaved but thick beard was disclosed beneath.

The prisoner's hair is black. Previously Mrs. Tesmer had said the girl was a blonde and it was this description that caused the police to take into custody a score of girls for investigation. All have been released except Mrs. Thompson.

TWO-MINUTE TOURS.

Singapore is to have $50,000,000 spent on it by the British government to make it an impregnable naval base.

When you think of Singapore, you think of the sleepy east.

But it was only 100 years ago that the site of this city, now important enough to the British empire to be thus fortified, was nothing but an apparently impassable jungle swamp. It is today one of the greatest trading centers of the East, with a population of 400,000.

It is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world. You can have your choice there—jinrickishaw or automobile, electric street cars, or ancient horse drawn carriages.

A man with prophetic vision founded the city. He was Sir Stamford Raffles. He looked ahead to the time when the island city would be, as he said:

"A great commercial emporium, and a fulcrum whence we may extend our influence, politically, as circumstances may hereafter require."

MRS. G. W. HALL SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Women to Know How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"Indeed, your medicine is all you say it is! I had very severe troubles such as women often have, and could do no heavy work. I was sick for several years, and from reading your ads. I finally decided to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now doing my own washing, which I haven't done for several years, and can walk long distances without those dragging pains and weak feelings. The Vegetable Compound is fine, and I never forget to say a good word for it to other women when they say they need something."—Mrs. G. W. HALL, 539 Hazel Avenue, Lima, Ohio.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Hall's experience is but one of many.

ON SAME FARM SINCE 983.

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—Talk about your F. F. V. and your blue-blooded Knickerbocker New Yorkers. Robert Lascassies-Poublan, French farmer is the twenty-fourth to bear the name since his ancestor settled on a little farm in Lezgarrier near Pau, in the south of France. That was in the year of grace 1,023—pretty close to a thousand years ago. When a Parisian newspaper man went to see him the day he proudly exhibited the original birth certificate of his ancestor, Robert Arnaut Guilhen Poublan, who first saw the light of day on Dec. 18, in the year 983.

For the first fortnight of June 215 commercial ships passed thru the Panama canal paying $874,822.

Which Woman Cared?

You see two women, young in years, as youth is counted now. One looks aged—one retains her girlhood bloom.

You know that one neglected her complexion—the other gave it care.

Caring means mainly this:

Use a soap that penetrates the pores. Keep the skin clean to its depths. Use a soap that restores, softens and fosters the skin texture.

That means Palmolive

That means Palmolive Soap — made by experts who have devoted their lives to the study of facial soap.

Made by experts so successful that their soap has become the leading toilet soap of the world.

Made to bring to the skin the matchless effects of palm and olive oils.

Forget the price

Many women feel that higher prices buy them better soaps. They do not. Science has never created a better or purer skin soap than Palmolive.

Men have never found, in all the ages, skin helps that compare with palm and olive oils.

No one has learned a way to make them more effective.

Millions of beautiful women know what they owe to Palmolive. Ask those you know, and you will do what they have done.

The age-old cosmetics

Cleopatra used palm and olive oils 3,000 years ago. Roman beauties used them 2,000 years ago.

In all the centuries since then, science has never found a complexion help to compare with those ancient oils.

Palm and olive oils—nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Bombshell-Remark Junior Threw at His Grandmother.

I AM extremely fond of my mother-in-law, but there are times when I have to exercise all my self-control to remember that she is an old woman, not well and entitled to deference because my husband is her son. For never in my life have I known a woman so maddeningly autocratic as she is when—in her own expressive if ancient parlance—"her fur has been rubbed the wrong way."

That I unconsciously must have employed an unusually stiff brush upon the present occasion, I realized when I saw the grim forbidding look with which she protested my taking Junior in my arms because she fancied—or pretended to—that I had a cold.

If it had been an ordinary occasion I might have humored her, although I knew that I was in perfect health, and I already had taken all the precautions against possible infection from the city which she had prescribed upon my unexpected arrival at the farmhouse.

But I had not seen my little lad for many weary days, and the sight of his grieved little face as he looked at me with wondering eyes, steeled my resolution. I walked steadily toward my mother-in-law, and stooping, swept my small son into my arms.

For a second I thought I would be engaged in a miniature tug-of-war, because, at my touch of the child, her arm tightened around him. But the next instant she released him. Her face, however, was black with anger as she confronted me.

"I'll take the responsibility, Mother," I said, placatingly, but firmly, before she could speak. "I haven't the sign of a cold, and I took the further precaution of spraying my nose and throat before I came down."

Mother Graham Is Tearful.

"I have nothing whatever to say," she replied, with the awful dignity which is hers when she is mortally offended. "But please to remember that whatever consequences there are, are entirely upon your own head. I have done only my duty in warning you. I could not have it upon my conscience to do less, even though I am only the child's grandmother, good enough to leave him with while his parents are gallivanting around the country, but not good enough to have anything to say when his life is endangered by a foolish mother's stubbornness."

Having thus amiably demonstrated her intention of keeping silence, she put the familiar handkerchief to her eyes, while I resigned myself to the flood of tears which I knew would follow. Junior, having covered my face with moist kisses during his grandmother's harangue, now looked at her curiously.

"Granzie don't feel bad when she cries," he announced at last, with a ridiculous little air of finality. "She's just mad 'cause she can't have her own way."

"Who Said That?"

I stared at him in horror. With uncanny babyish memory he had repeated a colloquy in which Dicky and I indulged not long before when Mother Graham was in one of her most trying tantrums. I remembered now, scoring myself for underrating the size of my little pitcher's ears, that Junior had been building a block house while Dicky and I were talking, and that apparently he had been utterly oblivious to everything else save his play. Yet he had remembered and reproduced a sentence of Dicky's with almost his father's very intonation.

Mother Graham dropped the handkerchief and glared at the child.

"Who said that, Richard Second?" she asked imperiously.

Junior looked at her with an air of detached deliberation, while I held my breath.

"Said what?" he finally queried, and I realized with a great sigh of relief that the bomb he had thrown was wholly exploded as far as he was concerned. Unless the sentence he had uttered was repeated to him, and he was quizzed about its source, he could give no further information concerning it.

This quizzing I knew his grandmother's dignity would not allow, at any rate, before me. But that she suspected me instead of Dicky of originating the remark Junior had only too palpably echoed, I saw in the malevolent look her eyes flashed upon me. And I was well content, that she had made the mistake.

She would be angry at me, I fully realized, but she would forget it after a while with a philosophical reflection concerning the captiousness of "in-laws" just enough to remember the many criticisms of me she must have uttered since my marriage to her son. But if she had known that her own idolized son had uttered the slighting remark, her fierce but worshipping old heart would have been sorely wounded.

As I waited to hear what she would say next, I resolved that even if I had to shoulder the blame of the remark myself, she should never know the true origin of Junior's little speech.

YOUR HEALTH

Seek Wise Care Early to Cure Any Nervous Trouble

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

WORSE even than death is the lingering misery of hopeless disease. When that disease attacks the nerves or brain, presided over by the delicate structures of the nervous system, the condition may become a living death. Then to awaken after years of suffering to find that cure was possible is simply heartbreaking.

Last year's visit of Prof. Lorenz brought to my attention the fact that in the city of New York are 35,000 crippled children. This is bad enough, but to know that hundreds of these cripples were curable and did not know it was enough to make angels weep.

The terrible thing about popular ignorance of medical matters is that needless suffering is permitted, curable conditions are neglected, and diseases easily cured in the beginning drift into hopeless incurability. In every community there are multitudes of persons who are suffering from what they call "nervous pains." They are conscious of lowered capacity for work. It is a common experience for a man to be in mental agony over the probability of losing his job, because of his failure to keep up the pace.

All such persons need wise advice, or else serious mental disturbance may overtake them.

It is not adults alone who are afflicted with nervous troubles requiring treatment. Wilful children of violent temper, children who have persistent headaches, night terrors and twitching of the muscles and children who lie and steal—all these are children who may become public charges if they are not properly handled in the beginning of their trouble.

Unfortunately, too many times the nervous patient of the type I have described is not taken seriously by doctor or family. As a matter of fact, whether adult or child, the victim of any one of these nervous disabilities requires the expert supervision of specialists in this line.

Successful treatment means more than relief from any acute illness—it means escape from lifelong suffering and mental disturbances. On this account it is essential to get early and well-directed treatment. Then there is every prospect of relief.

Answers to Health Questions

F. Q.—What is the cause of a white substance in the pores of the nose and what can I do for it?

2—What kind of cream can I use on my skin that will not make wrinkles or leave the skin greasy?

A—This may be due to a poor soap or poor cold cream. Do not squeeze the spots, as this enlarges the pores. Try steaming the face and follow by applying witch-hazel. Also try castile soap.

2—For the wrinkles use hot and cold applications alternately, each for 10 minutes, followed by massage with any good cold cream. Wipe the cold cream off with a soft cloth.

MISS C. A. E. Q—Whenever I eat anything sweet a rash appears on my face or arms. Will you please tell me what to do?

2—Can asthma be cured in a child of five?

A—You should avoid those foods which seem to aggravate your condition. Have your doctor give you treatment for this trouble.

2—Yes, this condition can be cured. Take the child to a specialist or to a hospital clinic for an examination and treatment.

• • •

D. L. Q—Is a duodenal ulcer dangerous, and is an operation preferable to medicinal treatment?

A—Yes, a duodenal ulcer is dangerous, but the treatment depends entirely on the case under consideration. Medicinal treatment sometimes suffices, and in other cases an operation is necessary.

• • •

MRS. E. L. F. Q—What is the cause of a cracked tongue, and what can be done for this?

2—Kindly advise me about ——.

A—A cracked tongue is usually due to constipation, and when this condition has been cured, the tongue will heal. Wash your mouth out with a solution of boric acid.

2—Kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your case. Also request instructions for treatment of constipation.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Neva Harrison

BETTY DECIDES THAT SHE REALLY LIKES RAIN.

BETTY looked out the window at the rain pattering on the sidewalk, and tears filled her eyes. It seemed to Betty that every Saturday she planned to go some place the sunshine faded and the rain came pouring down.

"I wouldn't care if I could go out," Betty mused, "but I can't. I don't see why we have to have so much rain. I don't see why it has to rain at all. I just wish——"

"Wait a second, hey!" called a happy voice, and Gocomeback, the little traveling elfin, tumbled in the open window. "Gracious! I thought you were going to wish it never would rain."

"That's just what I was going to wish," said Betty, her face brightening. "I really and truly believe that I'd like to have sunshine all the time."

Gocomeback's black eyes sparkled merrily. Without replying, he caught Betty's hand, and before she could ask where they were going, he set her down in a wonderful sea of sand.

"Now, then," he laughed merrily. "Before you wished that your own country had no rain. I thought you ought to see a land where it seldom, if ever, rains. This is the wonderful Sahara Desert. After you've stayed here a while, if you like this climate better than that of your own land, you then can think about wishing."

"But where is the grass and where are the trees?" Betty asked, for as far as she could see there was nothing but sand, sand, sand.

"It doesn't rain in this part of the country enough to encourage grass or welcome trees," replied Gocomeback.

"What a Narrow Escape!"

"But, of course, here you have just what you wanted—sunshine all the time. Sunshine every day, every week, every month."

Betty didn't say a word. She was terribly warm and the sand, with the bright sun on it, almost made her blind. She was glad when a caravan of dark-skinned men, in long white gowns, came along.

They seemed to know Gocomeback and stopped their camels and invited them to ride. Betty's feet were very tired and her throat was parched when they at last reached a tiny spot no larger than a city block filled with grass over which a few cocoanut trees threw their shade. Betty followed Gocomeback to get a drink from a small pool.

"I'm through, Gocomeback," she whispered. "If this is what comes from all sunshine and no rain, I'll take a little rain."

"Gracious, what a narrow escape!" exclaimed Gocomeback. "It's a good thing that I happened along at the right time, isn't it?" It would have been dreadful if you really had wished all sunshine and no rain to good old North America, wouldn't it?"

"I'm certainly glad that you tumbled in through the window at that instant," laughed Betty, and——

The desert, the oasis, the camels, the brown-faced men and the sea of sand vanished, and Betty was glad to find herself back in her own room—even if the rain was pattering down on the sidewalk outside.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a widow 30 years old with two good-sized children.

I am going with a widower 30 years old. He has a child, but his sister has adopted it. But he informs me ever so often that he never would marry any woman. I have gone about eight months with him and do think a good deal of him, but feel as if my time is all being wasted. What would your advice be to me? WANDA F.

WANDA F.: Continue your friendship with this man, but not to the exclusion of others. He has been very honest in telling you he has no idea of marrying you. Since he has done this, there is no reason why you shouldn't have many other friends.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT A Mysterious Paragon

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

SHE'S a duchess or a countess or a princess of the blood.

She's beautiful and she's clever, and you can see that she has been used to the very best society.

She has tact, courtesy, wit, good-humor, grace, charm, and she is very highly educated.

She speaks three languages thoroughly and reads five.

She knows all the newest books and she's read all the oldest ones. She plays the piano fairly well, and she can hum every one of the great operas from the overture to the finale and not think a thing of it.

She sketches rather well, too, and dabbles in water-colors.

Also she embroiders. And as a hostess she is simply a charmer.

He Is Simply Satisfied

And she is a working housekeeper for a man I know in the middle West, and the man I know is so pleased about it!

He tells all his friends what a wonder he has found, and all his friends are wondering, too.

Who is this woman?

Where did she come from?

Why, with all her accomplishments, is she willing to bury herself in a small town and wash dishes and sweep and put children to bed and get their lunches ready for school and mend stockings and darn socks—for $60 a month?

But the man doesn't wonder at all—he thinks it's quite natural.

No, he's not in love with the woman, and the woman isn't in the least in love with him.

But, he says, he is offering her a home and the privileges of a home, and this, he declares, is all that she or any other normal woman ever really wants.

And when you tell him that you think there's something queer about it, he stares and is rather offended.

He hopes that you haven't the modern ideas—if you have, he'd thank you not to mention them to his 13-year-old daughter.

He doesn't want her to think that there is anything in the world outside the four walls of what he is pleased to call a home.

Poor man! I wonder what he'll do when daughter suddenly rises up and tells him that she wants a home all right, but she intends to have it her own home, and not some one else's—not even his.

How Long Will It Last?

As for me and my suspicious nature, I will give the paragon about two months more to get back to her own level.

Either she is a woman in great sorrow, who is trying to find relief and forgetfulness in hard work and absolute change of surroundings, or she is some one who has reasons of her own for disappearing.

Perfectly good reasons, perhaps—but reasons.

Isn't it interesting to think that there is a man left in the world today who really believes that he is offering a cultivated, intelligent, brilliant and beautiful woman a great opportunity when he pays her $60 a month to cook and sew and mend and sweep in the household of a stranger?

In her own home—yes.

Any woman of character will do anything that is necessary to hold her own home together—but water doesn't run up-hill, does it? And doubtless there are stars in the sky in the daytime—but, somehow, we can't see them and we don't think much about them.

What do you suppose the mystery is, and what would you give to be as trusting and as pleased with your own situation in life and everything about it as this man in this particular case?

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

Why Maria Theresa Was a Great Woman as Well as Empress.

WHEN Maria Theresa came to the throne of Austria, she was 23 years old.

Her father, Emperor Charles the Fifth, died with the calm assurance that his daughter's reign would be serene. For he had just made a treaty with European powers called the "Pragmatic Sanction." In this treaty each country promised to support Maria Theresa as the Empress of Austria.

Added to this inheritance, which proved farcical, the young Empress was heir to a bankrupt treasury and a depleted army.

Bohemia and Hungary were rebellious when Frederick the Great of Prussia decided to annex Silesia.

When he marched into Silesia a war was precipitated which lasted for eight years. Before it was finished, England, Holland, Turkey, France and Russia were drawn into it.

Although Maria Theresa's husband was a gallant soldier, it was Maria Theresa who was the leader. She was a real general and understood warfare with the insight of a military genius.

Maria Theresa and her country gained power and prestige through the creditable showing which they made.

It was the Empress who was the master mind and spirit throughout it all. During these almost hopeless days, this indomitable Queen so aroused the admiration of her hitherto insubordinate subjects, the Hungarians, that they honored her by crowning her with the iron crown of St. Stephen.

Before this, Hungary had not recognized a queen. But on that day they proclaimed Maria Theresa their Queen and hastened in great numbers to enlist as soldiers in her ranks.

This was the real beginning of the empire of Austria-Hungary.

Maria Theresa prevented other nations from conquering her territory with such skill and bravery that she ranks as one of the great military leaders of her day.

But—it seems too bad to record it—she was not averse to seizing the territory of others. For it was Maria Theresa who influenced Russia and Prussia to join her in usurping Poland and dividing it between them.

Maria Theresa was a clever diplomat. She made an alliance with France through the marriage of her daughter, Marie Antoinette, to the French Dauphin. And she could not without help from France have achieved the success she won in the war started primarily against Frederick the Great to regain Silesia, but which resulted in the seven years' war.

Although the conflict waged for seven years, a treaty was signed which left matters exactly as they were at the beginning. This was the end of Maria Theresa's warfare.

Maria Theresa not only conducted a great government and led her armies to victory, but she bore 16 children, 10 of whom survived.

Although her husband, Francis, was not loyal to her, she loved him and was a broken-hearted woman when he died, having been married to him 42 years.

This fine notable queen lived for 15 years after his death.

She Was a Brilliant General.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Smart White Evening Frock with a Novel Deep Collar.

THE other night I went to a dinner party and afterward we went to the near-by grill of a famous hotel to dance.

"There are some wonderful feature dancers here," our hostess informed us. "I know we'll enjoy seeing them."

"Personally, I'd rather dance than watch anybody else do it," I assured her. "But I'll deign to watch them for a while."

The music was really marvellous and our party sat at the table only a minute before we were up and upon the dance floor. It was fairly small, with the tables placed about the edge, but there were not too many people, so we had plenty of room.

"How delightful to find such an attractive place that isn't overcrowded!" some one remarked with a sigh of relief.

"Yes, to me that's the main thing that spoils dancing anywhere you go," I agreed. "I do love it so, and one can't get the full exhilaration from dancing when it's simply a matter of avoiding the crowd at every turn."

When the music stopped we found our way back to our table and ordered refreshments.

"What a lovely gown over here at my left!" my hostess said in a low voice in my ear.

I cast an idle glance in the direction she named and saw one of the loveliest young girls it has been my privilege to see for some time.

"How beautiful she is!" I exclaimed, as I noticed her lovely skin and the soft dark hair parted in the middle and waved back from her face.

"And very smart," my friend added.

"I always notice a lovely face even before I do clothes," I admitted—"that is, if the person is as beautiful as this girl."

"But her frock does suit her exactly," I said the next minute when she stood up to dance, and I saw that the slim white satin dress fitted rather closely through the bodice and dipped down in a becoming curve at the front and back.

"White organdie with satin is a very unusual note for evening," my friend said, half to herself.

"Especially when it makes a deep collar like the kind you usually see for daytime," I agreed.

"What is that narrow binding that shines so?" my friend asked.

"Why, it's patent leather," I told her. "And the embroidery about the edge seems to be done in black silk thread."

I saw that the gathers in the skirt were concentrated at either side and shirred in place where the dip of the bodice made points like upturned V's at either hip.

"The silver and white brocaded slippers are lovely with it," my friend added, as the young girl came back to hertable.

Just then the specialty dancers came out and we turned our attention to them, or rather to the girl, who wore a striking white satin frock with circular skirt lined in flame chiffon, and slippers and stockings to match.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20.

An active and prosperous day may be forecast from the prevailing planetary rulerships. There is promise of renewed activity in situations long dormant and delayed and there is also an augury encouraging new projects and propositions. The financial outlook seems strong, but there is a warning against signing papers or entering upon contracts without more than ordinary precaution. In domestic, social and affectional affairs the prospect is not so favorable.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a stirring year, with probable success in new projects as well as in old and long-obstructed activities. A warning is sounded as to evening all papers cautiously and to beware of accident. A child born on this day will be clever and poetical and should rise in life through its own efforts and versatile talents. It should, however, be thoroughly trained in self-restraint.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Solving Some of the Problems of Running a Successful Roadside Tea-Room.

THERE is hardly a woman with a home on a main thoroughfare who has not considered opening a tea-room during the summer. If the thought did not originate in her own mind, it has probably been suggested by friends as an occupation that will bring good returns. Many have done it and succeeded. Also, many have tried it and failed.

If the woman is a good cook, a good manager, and wants to make some extra money in this way, it is safe to say she will succeed if she is in the right locality. We say "right locality" because it is only on roads traveled by the more expensive cars that money is likely to be made, as luncheon-carriers are not spenders.

The tea-room may be located on a wide, shaded veranda, in a big lawn summer-house, a well-arranged carriage-barn, or in a big old-fashioned dining-room. And a little stock of novelties may be on sale at the usual tea-room prices.

It is a strange truth, but people are more apt to buy in this way than they would were they in the midst of shops. The outlay for "stock" need not be heavy, but the things must be well chosen. To aid the novice there are clearing-houses that furnish just the right sort of things at fair prices, in small quantities.

A tea-room of this type should be built around a definite idea in decoration. Everything should be simple. For instance, a "Bandana Room," a "Kentucky Kitchen," a "Chinese Room" or a "Japanese Room." "The Sign of the Loom," "The Dairy Tea-room," or any other name may be chosen with the thought that the decorations should carry out the idea behind the name.

For the bandana idea, a few yards of bandana cretonne to cover the chairs and some old-fashioned things will be well enough, with lamp-shades or candle-shades to match. The wall should be painted and the rugs should be of the old-fashioned homespun variety. The foods should be the main feature, including the quick hot breads, good coffee, tea, preserves, baked Virginia ham, and other southern dishes.

Chinese and Japanese rooms may be done cheaply with paper decorations, straw trays, and so on. Here simply tea, light salads and cakes make up the menu.

For "The Sign of the Loom" an old weaving-room should be copied and as many hand-woven things as possible be placed on sale.

"The Dairy Tea-room" may be carried out where there are cows and plenty of milk and cream, and here only tea, coffee, cake and the quickly-made dairy dishes are specialties.

If the menus are well-planned and strictly adhered to, there will be but little loss. It is where the proprietor attempts to provide too much food in too great variety that loss is experienced. Here the emergency-shelf, the resourceful cook who thinks quickly and good cooking facilities count.

There is little danger of losing money on canned, bottled or boxed stuffs and staple foods. It is the perishable things only that cause loss. People will go miles for good home-made things to eat, and a well-placed card announcing specialties along these lines inserted in the nearest newspaper, for the Saturday night or Sunday morning edition, will call attention to the tea-room.

Among some of the novelties offered for tea-room stock are batik scarves and veils, odd baskets for different purposes and the popular long-legged French dolls that are among present-day fads.

A few carefully-chosen antiques, a little good handwork—lace or embroidery—and a little old brassware, hand-woven pieces in rugs, bags or materials and a few so-called "prizes" for small affairs take the traveler's fancy. It is not quantity but quality that counts. A few good, inexpensive motor-veils are also profitable, as these things are often needed for emergency wear.

CHAPTER LXVIII

The Fatal Initials

Graves went on, as though the words were torn from him:-

"I did hear young Mr. Holden say something about—about being—"

"Yes, go on. Don't be afraid to speak right out"

"About being ready to kill Mr. Treman, 'and be damned to the consequences,' gulped the unfortunate butler, on the rack. (He had liked Mr Holden and it seemed like treason to a friend to talk this way."

"Indeed! What else?" More rapid jottings with the pencil.

"Something about rascals like—like Mr. Treman—not being fit to be allowed to live."

Lady Warrington was pale with astonishment and incredulity.

"But there was no reason for a quarrel to occur betwen the two," she gasped. They met in my house in England, and quite liked each other"

(How little she knew! reflected poor Marcella, trembling.)

The police official took no notice of the interruption, he went on:-

"Did you go into the room again?"

"No sir I waited outside for perhaps five minutes."

"You didn't hear the sound of a shot?"

"Oh no. The two gentlemen grew quieter. I went down stairs and waited in the hall to let Mr. Holden out He never came. Time passed Then I went back into the pantry to get a sandwich, being hungry."

"How long were you in the pantry?"

"Maybe ten minutes. Maybe a little more. The clock in the hall struck twelve, I remember, when I went back. Thinking Mr. Holden had let himself out, I locked the front door and bolted it."

The other thought a moment, then he said:-

"Were the windows and doors of the kitchen premises, and indeed all the other windows, fastened?"

"Downstairs? Yes sir. Cook was out with her young man until half past ten. Then I locked the place up, after she'd come in."

"I see." A pause. "And the front door had been locked, until Mr. Holden called? You locked it again after you thought he had gone away?"

"I did sir. Then I went to bed But—I was uneasy. I couldn't sleep. At last I rose and went up to Mr. Treman's room. Through the crack under the door I saw the light still burning. So I knocked.

"Yes, go on." The man of law was making quick entries in his notebook. "What then?"

"I got no answer. So I turned the handle, and went in. What I saw you already know sir." and Graves gave an uncontrollable shudder.

"You found Mr. Treman lying on the floor, a wound in the head?"

"Yes, sir. He was dead, sir."

"All right Graves. That will do just now." The man put the notebook into his pocket, turaingto Lady Warrington. "I sent a couple of my men over to the inn to make enquiries. They telephoned that Holden was there, ought to be here by now."

A ring came to the front door bell. He went to open it.

"Ah! Here they are! This way!"

Miles Holden looked very white, but was outwardly composed. In a few words, the Captain of police gave him Graves' 'deposition.'

"You are the last person that I know of, to visit the murdered man," he said finally. "I understand there was a quarrel, was that so?"

Miles bowed his head in assent.

"There was."

"You made some threatening remarks." He repeated what the butler had overheard. "You admit making them? Be very careful what you say, you know."

Miles held his head up squarely.

"I do admit making them. I had every justification."

"And what was that?" rapped out the other quickly, seizing on the chance

The young man hesitated. Marcella standing nearby and within earshot, trembled like a leaf, he saw her trouble and it braced him.

"The matter is a private one. I can't explain."

The captain of police smiled wryly.

"No doubt you'll explain more fully at the inquest. The coroner's court is a great place for secrets to be brought to light."

Marcella gave a smothered cry.

The inquisitor went on:-

"Now tell me, what time did you leave the deceased?" He brought his note book out again. "Do you remember?"

"About half past eleven, I should think. I'm not certain."

"Graves was in the hall at half past eleven. He didn't see you go out It must have been later. Think again!"

"It wasn't any later," said Miles firmly, "and besides I didn't leave the house by the hall. I went out through the window."

"Through the window? Why?"

"I was confused and—and angry. The window's only six feet from the ground. It was open. I wanted to get away at once. I jumped—"

From a pocket of his coat the man of law drew forth a shining weapon and held it out to Miles.

"This was found in the long gross near the window. I suggest you dropped it?"

Miles drew back as though astonished.

"A revolver? I had no revolver on me! What do you mean?" Then looking at it more closely.

"Good lord! Where did you say it came from?"

The captain of police watched him keenly.

"Look at the initials 'M. H.' They're yours, all right. The revolver is your property, isn't it?"

Miles was staring at it as though hypnotized. Carefully he lifted it and turned it around. The initials 'M. H.' were quite visible to all.

"Yes," he said blankly. "It's my revolver, right enough"

EAGLES SESSION SORROWFUL

Accident to Moeschler Cast Shadow Over Convention.

HASTINGS, Neb., June 19.—The annual session of the Eagles of Nebraska, which opened here Monday, was tinged with sorrow by the news of the accident in which the state president, Louis Moeschler was fatally injured and George Miller seriously injured and George Miller seriously hurt. One hundred delegates were registered Monday and that number was to be considerably increased this morning.

Directors of the Crucible Steel company declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent.

Beautiful Hair Fascinates All

The hair fetishist, technically, is a criminal who cannot resist the temptation to steal hair; who cannot see a beautiful woman without being uncontrollably seized with a desire to snip a lock of her hair and carry it away.

Yet the hair fetishist, criminologists say, is only abnormally afflicted with the same fascination for beautiful hair which all of us possess in milder form.

Features are unchangeable. Size and figure are more or less unalterable. But beautiful hair is within the power of every woman.

Regular and thoro cleansing with FITCH SHAMPOO is the first requisite to a clean, dandruff-free scalp, and beautiful, healthy, glossy, lustrous hair.

Without proper care and attention your hair is bound to be dull, thin and scraggly. Use FITCH SHAMPOO and your hair will be clean, colorful, and altogether charming.

The FITCH SHAMPOO is on sale at first class toilet goods counters. In two sizes, 75 cents, $1.50 for family package. Complete directions in package. Applications at leading barber shops.

Our fine 16-page illustrated booklet, "The Secret of Beautiful Hair," mailed free to anyone on request. Address F. W. Fitch Co., Des Moines, Ia —Advertisement.

How to Have Beautiful Hair

To be charming and attractive you must have beautiful hair.

Beautiful hair is not a matter of luck, it is simply a matter of care.

You can have beautiful hair if you shampoo it properly. Proper shampooing is what brings out all the real life and lustre, the natural wave and color, and makes it soft, fresh and luxuriant.

Your hair simply needs frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, but it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soap. The free alkali, in ordinary soap, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it. This is why millions of women, everywhere, use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo.

This clear, pure, and entirely greaseless product cannot possibly injure, and does not dry the scalp or make the hair brittle, no matter how often you use it. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and has the appearance of being much thicker and heavier than it really is. It leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, fresh-looking and fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a four ounce bottle lasts for months.

Carl Hill, a taxi driver, faced a charge in police court Tuesday of reckless driving. A complaint had been made against him by J. K. Williams. The case was continued until Wednesday morning. Leona Gordon, 1221 C, was fined $1 and costs when admitted that he left his auto parked longer than two hours in the restricted zone.

Henry Maser, 1145 New Hampshire, was shaken up and injured slightly at 10:45 a. m. Tuesday when a truck that he was driving hit a telephone pole at Eleventh and South streets. The front part of the truck was damaged. Mr. Maser was driving a Tip-Top bakery truck. It is alleged that a broken radius rod caused the truck to turn into the pole. The accident was investigated by Constable Vorhies.

Lester and Walter Briton were dismissed in police court Tuesday of charges of molesting women on the street when they contended that one of the women was an acquaintance of one of the pair. They had pleaded innocence when arraigned Monday morning. They were arrested Sunday evening by Chief of Police Johnstone. "We havn't any use for mashers when we get them in this court," said Police Judge Chappell. They were given a warning before their dismissal.

The Farmers' Grain and Livestock company of Saronville has asked the state railway commission to secure an adjustment of wheat and corn rates to Omaha and Kansas City. The secretary writes that on wheat to Omaha the rate from Saronville is 19 cents, which is the same as from Harvard, nine miles west, while Sutton, four miles east, gets an 18 cent rate. On shipments to Kansas City the rate from Saronville is 20 1-2 cents, the same as Hastings, three stations west, while Sutton has a half cent less. Similar conditions exist with respect to corn rates. The company says that it is in close competition with Sutton and should have the same rate, allowing the break line to be drawn west of Saronville.

CROOKS CASE TO THE JURY

SAYS BRIGHT LIGHTS WERE THE CAUSE OF ACCIDENT.

Several Testify as to Whether or Not Filling Station Illumination Might Have Been Responsible.

The case of the state of Nebraska against Howard L. Crooks, who, it is alleged, injured Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hancock with his car and then drove off and left them lying in the street, will probably be in the hands of the jury by Tuesday evening. Mr. Crooks was the principal witness Tuesday morning. He testified that h ehad not been drinking on the day of the accident and said the accident was due to the fact that the lights of the filling station on the southeast corner of the intersection were so bright that they blinded him. The defense brought in several witnesses, who were friends of the plaintiff, who also testified that the lights weret blinding.

The state called to the stand George Dayton, one of the city commissioners, John Klinker, owner of the filling station at the time of the accident. Commissioner Cowgill of the street department, who all testified that the lights of the filling station were never blinding and that they never offered the slightest annoyance in the piloting of a car down the street.

Attorney Doyle in his talk before the jury reminded them that all of the witnesses for the defense were merely friends of Mr. Crooks who wanted to help him out and that the defense had not produced a single witness who knew a single thing about the accident. All of the state's witnesses were disinterested bystanders who had some direct connection with the accident. The closing arguments of the opposing counsels will take place Tuesday afternoon. The punishment for the offense of guilta is proved, is a fine of from $200 to $500 or from one to ten years in the penitentiary.

ADOPTION OF BIG BUDGET

non-collectable taxes. An effort will be made to persuade the county commissioners to provide for payment of the full sum granted by law.

The total sum allowed for instruction is $796,500; the general control estimate is $75,500; operation expense, $128,000; maintenance, $73,750, and miscellaneous, $28,500.

After liquidating bonds to the sum of $285,000, there will remain in the bond fund $85,450 of the old bond fund which can be used only for liquidation or payment of interest on bonds.

The board believed it to be necessary to complete the Saratoga, as considerable money is already tied up in the building and the extra space is badly needed. It was not believed wise by the majority to go further in debt to start a new venture, like the open air school, for which Dr. Rowe had given an estimate of $25,000.

Three new teachers, Hester Mills, Lorene Hendricks and Nell Jean Holtz, were elected to fill vacancies. Velva M. Lewis was given leave of absence for one year.

The city engineer, George W. Bates, visited the board to ask for the ceding of land for a street around the Randolph site on three sides, including Elmwood, Thirty-second and Thirty-third. He asked for the granting of thirty feet for each of these streets. The ground has been platted with cutting streets thru. Mr. Bates aslo asked for a change in sewerage at the old Irving tract at Twentieth and Lake, as the drainage is not considered sufficient. Action was deferred.

Superintendent Lefler reported that the attendance at the city playgrounds was 2,346 last week, having jumped from 1,400 of the previous week. Dr. E. W. Rowe and M. L. Palmer were appointed a committee to consider the advisability of a new site for the Randolph. Dr. Rowe was also appointed to investigate an opening in the wall at Prescott thru which the children slide a cross the street, and make some recommendation in the matte. It was said the wall should either be closed or steps installed.

Soft, Curly, Wavy Hair Now Easy To Have

Beautiful, fluffy, natural-looking curls or waves, without the use of the ruinous curling iron, are now possible for every woman. Yes, not only possible but very easily and quickly acquired, and with benefit to the life and health of the hair. It is only necessary to apply a little liquid silmerine before doing up the hair, using a clean tooth brush for the purpose. The hair will have a most delightful curliness and lustre, without the least suggestion of grease or stickiness, and will be quite controllable, no matter what the style of coiffure. As a few ounces of liquid silmerine from the druggist will last for months, it is quite inexpensive to use.—Advertisement.

WARDEN ASKS FOR HEARING

When asked what connection he had with the request that Chard be permitted to testify in Sioux county, the warden said:

"I put in two hours and a half on long distance trying to get connected with Governor Bryan who was at Alliance. Nothing was said to me in regard to Chard's testimony. Whenever the matter of testimony from an inmate has been taken up with me I have advised the prisoner to tell the truth and nothing but the truth.

"It seems to me that had Basye known his business he would have ascertained in advance concerning this man's testimony. When he puts in writing such a statement as he is alleged to have made, he indicates that he is one of those smart attorneys who cling to the conception that the way to build a reputation is to attempt to tear down the reputation of another. We are going to have a showdown. He must bring in the proof if he has it."

Chard is forty years old. He came to the penitentiary one year after his wife's death. He blames moonshine for what he terms his first and only fall and claims that he never had a square deal.

"I sure haven't any reason to protect any one. I make this statement simply because I don't want to be put in a bad light. I'm thinking of myself and don't want any such false stories to stand against me."

Lincoln Golfers Will Battle for Title Over New Course

CITY GOLF TOURNEY IS DATED FOR JULY

Expect 200 or More Golfers in Field Which Will Strive For Capital City Title—More Prizes.

The annual city golf tournament will be held over the country club course this year July 14-21, according to announcement of Dee Eiche, chairman of the committee in charge. With 175 golfers in the field last year it is expected that 200 or more will try for places in the four flights this year.

Qualifying rounds will be played July 14 and 15. The entrance fee has been boosted fifty cents which makes it total $2.50. The additional revenue will make possible the purchase of better and bigger trophies than were presented last year.

All Used For Trophies.

All of the money derived from entrance fees is used to buy prizes.

Gene Slattery, university student, won the title last year but it is doubtful if he will be here to defend this summer. He graduated from the dental college and expects to be practicing in Omaha by the time the tourney gets under way here.

Mr. Eiche is urging the entrants to get in their entrance fees as soon as possible in order that the committee may have some idea of how much money it will have to spend on trophies. The professionals at either club will take this fee or it can be handed direct to Mr. Eiche.

Chance To Practice.

The country club course will be opened to all entrants two days before the qualifying rounds are played.

Besides Mr. Eiche, the committee handling arrangements for the tournament includes Dave Cravens and Merle Rathburn.

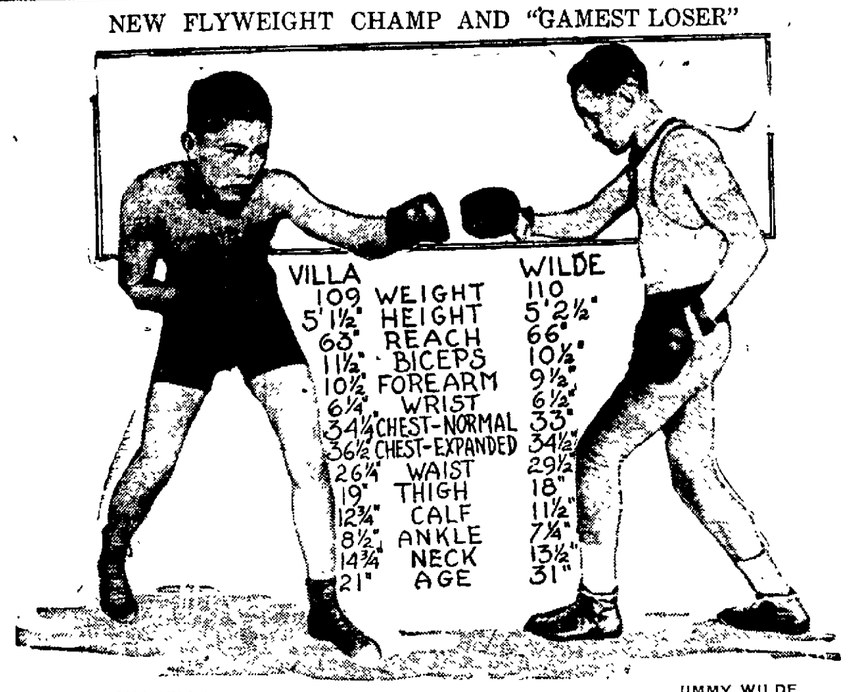
NEW FLYWEIGHT CHAMP AND "GAMEST LOSER"



PANCHO VILLA JIMMY WILDE

Here is the new flyweight champion, Pancho Villa, left and the "Mighty Atom", Jimmy Wilde. Pancho knocked the veteran Welsh titleholder kicking in the fifth round of their bout at the Polo grounds, Monday night. Villa recently lost his American flyweight title to Frankie Genaro. But by beating Wilde, Villa gets the world's title. This probably will bring the two wee-wees together again within a short time.

HOUTZ WINS FIRST REINSTATED START

Hastings Plays Loosely in Field While Links are Collecting Sixteen Safeties Off Beck—Fairbury Beats Norfolk.

HASTINGS, Neb., June 19.—Nine errors in Hastings' column and sixteen base hits in Lincoln's list, combined to give the Links a 10 to 3 victory over the Cubs here Monday, in the third game of the series.

Houtz, recently re-signed by the Links, appeared for his first time since returning to the Beltzer fold, and while he was hit frequently he kept the blows pretty well scattered. The Links play here again Tuesday and return home Wednesday for four games in three days with Beatrice.

The Hastings club is next on the Links' list. The locals play at the Capital City, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The score of Monday's game:

SOME FOUR TO ONE MONEY ON CHAMPION

That is His Manager Says It's Floating About—Start Raising Last $100,000 Payment For Dempsey.

By Henry L. Farrell.

SHELBY, Mont., June 19.—Promoters and managers of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight scheduled for the fourth of July started today to raise the final $100,000 installment of the $300,000 purse guaranteed the champion.

Dan Tracy, representative of the Great Falls bankers who advanced the money to meet the second payment, says he wishes to obtain the final installment as soon as possible and deposit it in the bank to Dempsey's credit. It is due July 2.

Audit Not a Reflection.

The books of the promoters in the Shelby office were turned over yesterday to the supervisors and auditors. Tracy said he wanted it understood that the auditing of the books was merely a formality and was no reflection upon the staff that had been handling the tickets and the money.

Mike Collins, who made the Dempsey-Gibbons match for the promoters, confirmed reports that a fight card would be staged in the arena July third, the day before the big fight. Three ten round contests with Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul and Jack Burke, Pittsburgh, light heavyweights in the main event, will be put on.

Collins said that as soon as he had completed preliminaries for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, his connection with the organization would be severed.

"I was hired as match maker and director of publicity and as soon as I arrange the preliminaries on the big card, my responsibility will cease," he said. "I have nothing to do with the money or the tickets."

Offering Four to One.

Kearns said he had heard some four to one money had been offered that Dempsey would retain the championship. Kane offered to take $20,000 of the money, and John O'Neill, young oil magnate who advanced some cash to meet the second installment of the Dempsey purse, offered to take another $20,000 at the same odds.

Gibbons was to work out again today with his four sparring partners.

Mrs. Fowles Low in Women's Meet

OMAHA, June 19.—Mrs. Russell H. Fowles, North Platte, was medalist of the qualifying rounds of the state women's golf tournament when she turned in a card of 96 for eighteen holes. Mrs. M. M. Levings, who won the title last year, was off her game and took 102. This was good enough to qualify in the first flight, however.

None of the Lincoln women entered was able to qualify in the first flight.

The challenger said he was going to increase his road work from four to six miles and that he was going to box twelve rounds in the future instead of eight rounds. Dempsey did some fast boxing yesterday, winding up by knocking out Harry Drake, English heavyweight.

FILIPINO KNOCKS OUT JIMMY WILDE

Game Little Welshman Never Had a Chance After Second Round When He Was Floored With Right Cross.

By Paul R. Mallon

NEW YORK, June 19.—Four years ago, Pancho Villa, seventeen years old, came out of the Philippine cane breaks to make his fortune. At that time, Jimmy Wilde, British wizard, was "sitting on the world."

Today Villa is flyweight champion of the world and the career of the famous Welshman is done.

Knocked Out In Seventh.

Working like an animated battering ram, Villa pounded, jabbed, hooked and cut the veteran until his pipe-stem legs dropped from beneath him and he sank to the canvas in the seventh round at the Polo grounds last night, completely knocked out.

Blinded and beaten his face covered with blood and his spindle white legs trembling beneath him, Wilde fought for five long rounds on his courage. Never after he was knocked down by a right cross to the jaw at the close of the second round, did he have a chance to win.

He knew he didn't have a chance, but he went on and on, and would not go down until he was knocked down and he would not go out until he was knocked out.

Odds Were Too Great.

It was the first time in his long career that Wilde had been knocked out by a man of his class. But the odds of inactivity and age were too great. He could not prance about the ring fresh and fighting in the old spirit. Only for a few seconds of the first round did he look like the Wilde of old.

There were forty thousand spectators to see the battle and it is estimated they paid $180,000 of which Villa gets $32,000 and Wilde $65,000.

SHORT EIGHTH HOLE IS AMERICAN'S JINX

Detroit Star Describes How He Came Within a Stroke of Again Capturing British Open Title.

BY WALTER HAGEN.

(Former British Champion and Correspondent of The Journal.)

The British are again in possession of the open championship trophy which has been in America for the past two years. I am proud to tell my friends that it was by no means certain that a British golfer would win the title until I had reached the very last green and played my next to last shot in a 72 hole contest. I tried desperately to win, but with a stiff wind blowing it was by no means an easy task to score.

Young Arthur Havers, who beat me out by a stroke, is deserving of all the credit that attaches to winning this title. He played excellent golf and held up well. When I began to play in the third round I had high hopes that I would win the prize, but a disaster befell me at the eighth hole which proved my undoing. The loss of two strokes here caused me to finish one shot behind the new champion. However, we Americans fell well satisfied with our showing.

Capture Three Places.

Macdonald Smith was one shot behind me, and Joe Kirkwood, my partner, who is now an American, was one stroke behind Smith, so we figured that we did the same as last year by capturing three places out of the first four. The failure of Sarazen and Barnes was a misfortune, of course. I am firmly convinced that one of them if not both, would have been right there with the rest of us fighting it out for first place.

Young Havers, the new champion, is a fine young fellow, who only this week celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday I have played in three big championships with Havers and know his game well. I ran against him in match play tournament at Leeds two weeks ago and beat him, but neither of us were quite on our game. He told me then that he was not driving well but hoped to correct some of his faults before the first round began. A brother professional took him out on the course and discovered where he was wrong.

Has Ideal Build.

Havers stands over six feet and has an ideal loose build for golf. He began play at the Royal Norwich course, where his father is club steward, and he was a boy wonder. He set up a remarkable record of 68 for the course. At sixteen he qualified for the open championship. When Jock Hutchison won two years ago Havers led the British professionals. It will be remembered that Hutchison, Wethered and Kerrigan finished ahead of him.

Readers will recall that I predicted this champion would be won by one of the younger set. It was just a question yesterday whether Havers could hold on to his game.

The Americans had cause to rejoice when Kirkwood and Macdonald Smith had record-breaking rounds of 69 in the morning. This put five of us at the top of the heap bidding for the big prize. When I arrived at the seventeenth tee in the afternoon I knew that I had to make two threes to tie with the leader. I got the three on the seventeenth, but missed my three on the home green.

There were fully 10,000 in the gallery, and I believe every one of them was banked around the eighteenth green waiting to see my finish. The wind was rather stiff and I pulled my second into the bunker. I got out and holed a five-yard putt for a par four, which was one stroke too many.

Eighth is Waterloo.

I will always regret the way I played the short eighth, which proved my waterloo. The green is small and ringed with traps, with a huge sandhill on the left hand side. In holding the ball up a little too much in the wind it fell on the hillside on the pathway in some blown sand. I determined to play the ball firmly, but I hit it too clean and it raced across the green and out of sight into a bunker on the other side. So the hole cost me a five, two more than I would have taken had the shot turned out as I planned it.

I missed a short putt at the ninth which caused me to take thirty-eight for the first half. I had played the first six holes in twenty-four and figured that I had a fine chance to keep up this gait for the round. I simply couldn't win this year, but will bend my efforts on trying to take the American titled at Inwood.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Under the leadership of corn, grain prices strengthened late and regained most of earlier losses and advanced fractionally.

Wheat rallied and regained some of its earlier losses with good local support following receipt of dam ging news from over the southwest where old-time drought prospects further endangered crops in the Dust-stricken districts. Earlier reports of favorable conditions caused drastic decline which brought prices to new low levels on the movement. Some buying was attributed to bodders who felt that the setting had extended far enough. Harvesting was under way in many sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Light receipts, limited country offerings and small stocks brought a fair class of buying in corn. The high cash prices prevailing in all outside markets also affected sentiment.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Grain prices were irregular at the opening on the Chicago board of trade today.

Liquidation in wheat continued after the opening, but little change in prices was noted. Trading was light. Liverpool opened fractionally lower and at 2 o'clock showed further weakness. Weather and crop conditions in the southwest were improving and fields are drying out rapidly. Harvesting is under way in many sections of Kansas and Oklahoma.

Corn showed firmness with good local support. Receipts were light, only 30 cars being received.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Brokers who stood in the wheat pit yesterday said there was an absolute absence of aggressive short selling and that the sharp break in prices was due ent rely to liquidation by tired longs and to persistent selling in small lots that could only be attributed as hedging against new crop grain.

A majority of the local bulls were believed to be out of their wheat last night thoroly disgusted with the action of the market. The absolute lack of speculation counts more at the present time than anything in the way of news. Some traders say that unless radical crop news comes or there is a marked change in general conditions values will shrink much lower regardless of the size of the coming crop.

George E. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, in answer to a question regarding a report that the Armour Grain Co. would handle wheat this season for the grain growers' cooperative company, said the proposition had been presented by Bernard M. Baruch, but so far nothing definite had been decided.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: If the wheat stabilization conference is likely to impress the speculative public that there has been over-production of wheat and that artificial consumption must be resorted to in order to absorb the surplus.

Thomson-McKinnon: There is nothing as yet to create buying enthusiasm.

Harris, Winthrop & Co.: Crop advices are rather more favorable.

Clement Curtis & Co.: A small amount of hedging pressure is making its appearance.

Logan & Bryan: Wheat will probably work irregularly toward a carrying-charge basis unless the export situation strengthens.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co.: Until something drastically bullish restores confidence it will be difficult to bring about a permanent rupture in wheat. Corn meets good buying power on setbacks.

Fillmann Grain Co.: We are paying the severe penalty of having kept our wheat above the world's level for so long and are afraid readjustment is not yet complete.

Logan & Bryan: The tone of the Secretary Wallace statement was quite felt in the wheat market. We would not sell corn.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Pessimism saturated every strata of speculative thought following Monday's severe break in the stock market and trading today was under the influence of apprehension resulting from the lack of inside support.

Altho the industrial average at the previous close was still above the November lows, it was below the bottom figure touched on the break which was checked late in May.

Baldwin had a further drop in the initial dealings, selling off 1½ to a new low for the year at 122⅝. Chandler showed some signs of support, 1,000 snares changing hands on the opening sale at a fractional advance.

Generally speaking, however, the market was below or around the low levels on the current decline.

Opening prices include: Reading 74½; Bethlehem Steel 50⅝, up ¼; Studebaker 104⅞ off 1½; U. S. Rubber 45⅞, off ⅛; Pan-American 64, off ½; Baltimore & Ohio 49, off ¼; California Petroleum 22, off ⅜; American Can 91, up ½; U. S. Steel 92⅜; Sinclair 23⅜, off ⅜; Baldwin 123¼. Why Some People Stand Still.

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

The other day a chauffeur was sent to take me and others a distance of thirty-five miles. He waited for me fully half an hour in front of the house. When I came out I asked this young man if everything was all right and if he was prepared for any mishaps.

"Oh, yes, everything is all right", he assured me. We went about five miles and one of the tires blew out. As this is not a difficult matter, and can be readily adjusted in a few minutes, we thought nothing of it and got out of the car to wait for it to be fixed.

The chauffeur immediately informed me that his spare tire was not blown up. When he went to look for his jack it was not there, so that he could not even raise up the wheel. Furthermore, he had forgotten to bring an extra tube and while he had patches to put on the perforated tube, he did not have the compressed necessary with which to make the patch and there we were a costly, long distance from a telephone, absolutely helpless.

To make a long story short, we were stranded for two hours. We had to send for an emergency car to bring a tube and get us ready to go on our way—the thing that should have been done before we started.

And the most exasperating part about it was the young man put up a argument when he was told about his shortcoming. Here he had been assigned to a journey, the sole custodian of the car and its equipment, and never had even seen to it that he had the wherewithal to fix such a small matter as a "blow-out." He took all the risks in the world—in the hope that nothing would happen.

If he had taken the chance only for himself and his own time and his possible loss of temper and inconvenience, that would be bad enough, but he was taking a chance on my time and my friends and put us to the disagreeable task of waiting and worrying about the appointment we expected to keep at the end of the journey.

Such people often remain in the rut simply because they do not do the job that is distinctly theirs to do. Their success is slow and not always sure.

The old injunction in the Bible is one of the wisest, especially for today. It reads something like this: If you have been faithful over a few things you will be made ruler over many.

The man who cannot be faithful on his particular job rarely gets further. He usually stands still.

And that is perhaps the greatest suffering of mankind today—the fact that you delegate something to some one and then have to follow it up to see that it is done. It is the same old "Message to Garcia." Just stop to think if it were possible for everybody to do the work which they have engaged to do: what an easy world in which to live this would be.

Consider if you did not have to tell a person twice to do a thing what miserable moments would be averted—no, not moments, but months and years if they could be counted up.

It does seem reasonable that this chauffeur would see to it that he had all of his paraphernalia in such good shape as to give him the least possible trouble.

I learned afterward that this man is an excellent mechanic; that he has done some splendid work and has it in him to go far in his profession. All he needs to do is to concentrate. There's the thing! To concentrate on the business at hand. The rest will take care of itself. Besides, this man has a splendid example in his employer whose efficiency traits are the chief elements in his make-up.

Few people expect unreasonable things. The truth is that many a man treats his job lightly. He does not take it to heart. Then they wonder why they stand still.

You have got to take your work seriously. You must be prepared to take the responsibility for the thing you are going to do, and the opportunity to which you are looking forward always comes. This is an unfailing law.

In other words, no matter how small your job make it your job and see to it that you perform it so well that you will be called to higher things.

Too Much Neatness.

I once knew a woman who had the reputation of being the best housekeeper for miles around. Her neighbors described her kitchen floor as "so clean you could eat off it." But when I think of that woman, I remember one long hot summer afternoon when I was playing with her children and ran into the kitchen to get a drink of water. I had turned on the faucet over the black sheet-iron sink when her small daughter appeared in the kitchen doorway, an agonized expression on her face.

"Oh, mother will be mad at you," she whispered. "You've let the sink get all wet. She always oils it right after lunch and then we can't turn on the water till dinner time."

"But I want a drink," I explained.

"I know," said the other child. "But mother say there's no need of our wanting drinks of water in the afternoon."—The Designer Magazine.

Lloyd George Failed.

"I come from a people," wrote Mr. Ramsey Macdonald, "as ready to use their dirks as their tongues." It will be interesting if the leadership in social reform and in the determined fight for the welfare of the under dog in Great Britain is now passing from a fullblooded Welshman to a "black" highlander. It is interesting also to compare the careers of the two men. Mr. Macdonald has endured all the vicissitudes of "outrageous fortune" in public and private life. Both men began their lives in poverty. Mr. Lloyd George passed thru the education of a Welsh solicitor to the highest position in the state. The cunning and capacity for compromise and the success of agreement in words where there was no agreement in deeds, learned from wrangles over affiliation cases or the grubby efforts in a minor practice of a local Welsh attorney made the education which led to similar cunning and compromise and misuse of words for deeds in the great councils of Europe, in which for the time he appeared to be successful, and in which he is now shown to have miserably failed.—The Century.

Right Mixture.

The office humorist was eating his lunch in the deserted office when the porter entered. "Did you miss me last week?" he asked.

The office humorist looked up. "Yes," he replied, "in some ways. I noticed the man they had in your place was rather quieter in his operations, that is, he removed the dust instead of raising it. He was not quite so energetic in waving that broom nor did he rattle the tin pail so often. 'It was a quiet week, Bill, and I hope I don't hurt your feelings when I say I rather enjoyed it."

"Maybe you're right," the porter said, seating himself easily. "I do raise a lot of dust and make a lot of noise, but isn't that what you do yourself? We both of us know that noise and ability go together. When I'm working around the boss knows there's a porter here, otherwise he might forget me, and some day he'd say to the pay clerk, 'Who is that fellow? What you got his name on the roll for? I never see or hear of him. Let him go.'"

"Well, you surely have succeeded, Bill. The boss knows you're working here. The other day, when you tripped over your pail and slid down the back stairs I heard him say he sometimes felt as if he conducted a boiler factory."

"Still," said the porter, "you've got to have ability with noise, otherwise it won't work, which reminds me of Jim Follis. He sells hot corn down my way, and some time ago he had a cold. Now when you sell hot corn you've got to let the neighbors know it.

"Jim has a powerful voice and he sure knows how to make hot corn. When he got this cold he lost his voice and couldn't speak above a whisper, so he hired Sam Kigley to holler for him. Kigley watched Jim sell hot corn that night and saw there was good money in it, so the next night he started out for himself.

"Jim's voice was still out of order, so he hired Pink Wilder to tell the world he was selling hot corn. Pink watched Jim garner in the sheckles, and couldn't see why he should strain his voice for somebody else, so the next night he was out selling hot corn, trying to drown out Kigley. Jim quit in disgust and stayed home and nursed his cold."

"And let the other fellows cop his trade, Bill? That was poor judgment."

"Well," returned the porter. "Pink and Kigley could holler hot corn but they couldn't make the kind Jim sold, so when he was able to be back on his route again he had no competition, no sah; Pink and Kigley was both busted and never wanted to hear of hot corn again. Which proves," concluded the porter impressively, "that noise and ability together is what a fellow needs."

The porter rattled his pail and resumed his labors.—Chicago News.

Thus Spake Zarathustra, Jr.

"The thing that the oncoming generation reacts more violently against than anything else is stuffiness. If you want to make a girl feel she is out of the race, call her mid-victorian. If you want to cut a young man to the quick, call him a prig," says Alan A. Hunter in the Century.

"I am about to be graduated from an undenominational seminary, and I am planning to be a preacher. I hate stuffiness whether in blue-stockinged conduct or in stiff-necked doctrine, just as cordially as to do the rest of us who are under thirty. And I crave, what we of this eager generation crave above all else—ventilation, a complete airing of soul. For our demand in these days is to meet all sorts of human beings, to have all kinds of experience.

"Let me emphasize this—our motive is not to destroy what has been sanctified by the past. On the contrary, the force that drives us on today has been sanctified for nineteen hundred years by one who came that men might have life and have it more abundantly. What we seek is more air, more life, more personality."

Canada's Communist Agitators.

After smoldering for two years, the fire of industrial discontent in eastern Canada widened into a devouring conflagration in the spring of 1923. "Long live communism," was the cry as the miners and steel workers joined forces for the first May day celebration ever held in Canada. The singular phase was that in this instance the devotees of communism were not in the main workers speaking foreign tongues, but rather of sober Scotch descent. Against the explicit order of the international executive of the united mine workers of America from its headquarters at Indianapolis and the positive assurance from John L. Lewis, international president of the united miners, that affiliation with the communist international at Moscow would be condemned, the miners of the bituminous fields of eastern Canada made the affiliation. A delegate was dispatched on the long journey to Moscow with

Without the suggestion you eat at the most convenient eating place; otherwise, you follow the advice of wisdom and go down a flight of steps, up a hill, across a dusty road, over a pile of bricks and some scaffolding and loose shingles, and save 25 cents.

"Suggestors save you railroad fare by putting you wise to the $9.98 rate when you have been paying $11.75. The only difference is that the cheap ticket is good only on Saturday and Sunday when everybody else is going and you don't get a seat, but jiggle yourself all the way there and back hanging to a strap and vibrating between a couple of other standers.

"I'll admit that most suggestions save you money, but they always cause you discomfort. On the whole I think you are better off without them. When you don't know you're getting stung, you can lean back in a comfortable way and enjoy yourself.

"A man once suggested to me that I save the price of having my lawn rolled by borrowing a roller from a man two blocks away and rolling my own. All I had to do was to roll the roller two blocks each way and up and down the lawn a couple of hundred times. Did you ever roll a ten-ton roller up and down a lawn? I would suggest that you try it some time it's good exercise. You can borrow Samson's any time."

But the man with the pointed beard received the suggestion coldly.—Chicago Daily News.

Why Not a Good Fight?

President Harding continues to speak softly of the United States senate, but somewhere about his person it is pleasant to observe, is a big stick, padded, but potent. It has printed on it the talismanic world, "World Court" and it is a powerful weapon. It is a great instrument for right dealings and correct adjustments among the nations of the world; but it may well be used also as a club of persuasion—on the senate.

The whisperers, pussy-footers and shadow-finders are all telling President Harding that he must not quarrel with the senate over the world court. Why not? If he does not tell the senate what to do, it will be an invitation to the senate to tell him what to do, and the senate—or the aggressive, vocal self-sufficient Harding-hating minority in the senate—will not hesitate to do it.

Nothing will do the Harding administration so much good as a stiff-punching fight with the senate minority—those loud-lunged, spotlight-hunting, self-pushing senators who are forever daring somebody to knock a chip off their shoulders.—Portland Oregonian.

Orthodoxy Must Be Upheld.

Saturday night theatre-going was among the habits attacked by William Jennings Bryan in a speech at the Presbyterian Assembly. Maybe W. J. B. regards the Saturday night bath as a sacred institution which should not be interfered with.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

MEN AND THINGS

Henry M. Leland, one of the big figures in the motor car world for years, is eighty-one years of age, and declares that he still counts it a privilege to have been able to work hard all his life, and that he wants to keep on working until he dies. This is the testimony of nearly every man who has left his impress upon the world in which he has lived. It is worth a great deal more than all the theorizing of those who have gone only part of the way on the journey between the cradle and the grave. Nothing so satisfies a human being as the successful completion of a more or less difficult task, and this is created only by work.

What's getting wrong with some of the theatrical producers? A New Yorker who claimed that he was merely thrusting home a needed lesson was recently convicted and fined for producing a play that the prosecutor said was a defense of harlotry and prostitution. Every principal character in it was connected with a brothel. The play revolves about the efforts of a proprietor of one of these places to raise his daughter as a pure girl, and his failure because of the immoral atmosphere he had himself created. There were scenes in which the immoral women discussed their trade and others in which the language was obscene. No mere words could characterize such conduct on the part of a producer, and we leave it as it stands.

While medical science, having been so often tricked, is reluctant to admit that a cure for a disease has been found until it has been tried out under proper circumstances and over such a length of time as give assurance. It now announces that diabetes is yielding to treatment. About the same time we read that a cure has been discovered by a Chicago woman for infantile paralysis, another of those diseases that have baffled the medicos. Before we grow too enthusiastic about this announcement, we shall need to have further assurance. Yet there is this to be said, based on the devotion to science that is evident in so many of the medical profession, that in time it will conquer the worst foes to our health and comfort.

Before we finally let loose of the bone of contention, we rise to remark, even at the risk of mixing our metaphors that most of the comments we have read about the foreign language law decision show an utter misconception of the facts surrounding its inception, the conditions which it was sought to reach by its enactment and the actual place in the public school curriculum that foreign language teaching possessed before the war. Of course, opinions based on ignorance contribute nothing to the solution of any problem.

Some of these writers are convinced that the legislation was the result of what they call "war hysteria," which is another way men have of disposing of the other fellow's arguments. Yet the fact is that no legislation has ever been enacted in Nebraska with more care and less haste than this we are talking about. Some of the best men in the state contributed to the final molding of the law, after weeks of weighing every argument, and their desire was to lay down a permanent educational policy. They took final action after listening to dozens of church day school men protest, and their conclusion was that these men, with the best intentions in the world in most cases, were more anxious to perpetuate their mother tongue in America than anything else.

Ordinarily we have had little regard for the soundness of Admiral Sims' opinions, but this was because he seems to think that his position as a higher up fleet executive equips him for discussing anything connected with the government. But when the admiral says that after having created a war college, it is inimical to the best interests of the people to give half of the important positions in the service to men who have not attended it he is on sound ground. Training in war colleges teach commanders how to reach sound tactical decisions in time to beat the other fellow to it. It might prove very costly to have an untrained man in the seat of power when the emergency rises.

One frequently hears a person say that "I can't imagine why" so and so does thus and so. The declaration carries its own answer. It is because they cannot imagine why this one likes poetry, that one sacrifices time and money to music, this one collects books and magazines. It is imagination that peoples this world with fancies and tastes that give enjoyment, and those who do not possess it are heavy losers when it comes to balancing up things.

Mrs. Shortley was discussing the latest fashions with a young lady caller. "Did you say your father was fond of those clinging gowns, May?" "Yes; he likes one to cling to me for about three years."—Sheffield, England, Telegraph.

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

5 Minutes to Answer This

My son is 5 times as old as my daughter, and my wife is five times as old as the son and I am twice as old as my wife, while grandmother, who is as old as all of us put together is celebrating her 81st birthday. How old is the son?

Answer to Yesterday's

The diagram shows how the three squares can be dissected into six pieces, which may be reformed into one square. Just slide up that upper two-piece triangle, which will produce a triangular space at the upper right hand corner of the square to be formed, and into that space will fit the two piece triangle at the lower left-hand corner. It is an application of Euclid.
